GRAIN.

FLOATING GRAIN CARGOES (THE BALTIC), Wednesday.—WHEAT cargo market quiet, and prices easier on more favourable crop news from North America; No. 1 Northern Manitoba July-August 57/-, white Pacific August-Sept. 55/-, Australian afloat 56/-, August 56/6; choice white Karachi July-August 53/6, Rosafe (63½lbs.) ditto 53/6, Barusso ditto 52/3. OATMEAL fully steady; London-made flaked 17/6, rolled oats 17/-, medium and fine cut 17/-, coarse and medium pinhead 17/-, ordinary Scottish oatmeal 18/- to 18/6 per cwt.

LIVERPOOL, Wednesday.—WHEAT—The sharp decline in America and the Argentine was reflected here at the commencement of operations, when forward deliveries of wheat showed a substantial decline; values further gave way, and, although a moderate recovery took place later on shorts covering, prices again receded, but finished over the worst point, though considerably lower on the day. C.i.f. parcels quiet at lower prices, business being confined to No. 1 Manitoba afloat at 55/-, and Chilean in same position at 50/3 per quarter. C.i.f. parcels of MAIZE River Plate July-August sold at 35/- to 35/3, September-October 36/-, October-November 36/9 to 36/10½, and November-December 36/9 to 36/10½ per quarter. Wheat on the spot ruled quiet and prices favoured buyers. Maize spot parcels scarce and unchanged at 7/6 for American mixed, but River Plate easier at 7/8 to 7/8½ per cental. FLOUR steady at yesterday's advance. Graded wheat futures opened 1½d. to 1¾d. per cental lower, lost a further ½d. to ¾d., then recovered ½d. to ¾d., and fluctuated moderately, closing over worst point, though 1¼d. to 1½d. under last night. Maize options nominally 1d. to 1½d. lower.

GLASGOW, Wednesday.—Wheat easier, in sympathy with American and Canadian markets. No. 1 Manitoba 56/- and July slightly lower. In all positions demand indifferent. Oats steady at late prices and in fair request. Barley—Supplies small and market firm for all kinds. Flour—Recent quotations repeated and sales disappointingly small.

PROVISIONS.

LIVERPOOL, Wednesday.—Irish and Danish BACON again rules steady at late rates, with a moderate business reported. Canadian Wiltshires firmly held, but only a moderate inquiry experienced. Holders of American bacon here continue to offer fresh parcels sparingly, the advance in live hogs at Chicago counteracting the weakness in speculative products. Prices still display an upward tendency, American Wiltshires being raised to 76/- to 81/-, bellies 79/- to 81/-, light Cumberlands 78/- to 82/-, and heavy averages 77/- to 80/- per cwt., with buyers again operating to a fair extent. HAMS firm and in fair demand for fresh parcels, but no quotable changes in values reported. Shoulders again fairly active, especially picnics, which are relatively scarce and firm. LARD on spot, in sympathy with the decline in Chicago, is reduced 6d. to 1/- per cwt.; prime steam offered at 73/6 to 74/- and American refined 74/- to 75/6, with little business doing. CHEESE quiet and favouring buyers; 91/- to 93/- per cwt. now quoted for both white and coloured Canadian. BUTTER quiet, though steadily held at late rates. EGGS steady at 15/- to 16/6 for Irish hen and 12/6 to 13/3 duck per 120.

REFINED LARD FUTURES.—LIVERPOOL, Wednesday.—The unexpected sharp decline in Chicago had a weakening effect on values here during the early session, when fair fluctuations took place, finishing 1/6 to 1/9 per cwt. under last night; August sold at 73/- to 72/9, September 73/6, 73/9, 73/6, with July quoted 72/9 to 73/-, and cash ex quay 72/9, store 73/- sellers. With strong afternoon cables the early decline was sharply recovered, closing unchanged on the day; September realised 75/-, October 75/9 to 76/-. July quoted 73/6 to 74/6 per cwt.

DUBLIN VEGETABLE, Wednesday.—Small arrivals of vegetables, which readily cashed at following rates:—York cabbage, 30/- to 94/- per load; cauliflowers, 3/- to 3/6 per dozen; lettuce, 2d. to 4d. per doz.; rhubarb, 1/- to 2/-.

CORK BUTTER, Wednesday.—The tone of the market is quieter and values are easier. Choicest salted 182/- per cwt., creameries 180/- and farmers' fresh lumps 159/- per cwt.

IRISH BUTTER TRADE ASSOCIATION.—Merchants buying farmers' unsalted lumps unfinished 1/5 to 1/3 per lb., delivered Cork, according to quality; creamery finished for shipment 1/7½ to 1/8 per lb.

DUBLIN FISH, Wednesday.—Fair supply of fish—namely, 38 packages salmon, 23 chests lobsters, 120 packages herrings, and 42 mackerel, which sold easily at following prices:—Salmon, 1/6 to 2/- per lb.; large lobsters, 10/- to 15/-; seconds, 5/- to 6/-, and smalls 2/- to 3/- per lot of 13; large soles, 40/- to 45/-; mediums, 20/- to 25/-; and slips, 6/- to 8/- per 9 pair; large plaice, 4/- to 6/- per 4; mediums, 3/- to 4/- per 8; turbot, 2/- to 6/- each, and brill 1/- to 5/- each; plaice per half box 20/- to 50/-; codfish, 30/- to 40/-; ray, 10/- per half box; herrings averaged 10/- per box, and mackerel 20/- per box.

GRIMSBY FISH, Wednesday.—Fair supply; demand moderate. Plaice 11/-, lemon soles 12/-, halibut 8/- to 1[illegible]/-, cod 4/- to 5/-, skate 6/- to 7/-, small haddocks 3/-, kit 4/6, gibbed 6/6, dabs 8/- to 9/-, codlings 3/- to 4/-, and whitings 3/- per stone. Soles 3/- and turbot and brill 1/- per lb.

BILLINGSGATE FISH, Wednesday.—Supply fair; demand fair. Salmon 1/6 to 2/3, grilse 1/6 to 1/10, soles 2/2 to 2/8, and slips 1/8 to 2/- per lb. MULLINGAR FARMER'S ACTION.

Before Mr. Justice Sullivan and a city common jury, an action was heard in which the plaintiff, Joseph Flynn, a farmer, of Marlinstown, near Mullingar, sought damages, laid at £1,000, from the defendants, Christopher, Patrick, Michael and Thomas Crowley, for alleged assault, and also for conspiracy on the part of the defendants to assault and beat plaintiff. Separate defences were put in by Patrick and Michael Crowley, and also by Christopher and Thomas Crowley, and in all cases they denied that they assaulted the plaintiff, and alleged that anything they did was in self-defence.

Counsel for plaintiff—Messrs. Lynch, K.C.; Lardner, K.C., and Geoghegan (instructed by Mr. N. J. Downes). For defendants—Messrs. Price, K.C.; Wood, K.C., and Martin C. Maguire (instructed by Mr. Joseph A. Shaw).

The case had not concluded when the Court adjourned.

BOXING.

THE CRUISER-WEIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP OF IRELAND.

There was a big attendance at Croke Park last evening, when one of the best tournaments witnessed here was staged. The principal bout, that for the Cruiser-Weight Championship of Ireland, produced a good exhibition, Jack Mahoney, of Cork, defeating Jack Phœnix on points. Details:—

Six 2-Minute Rounds.—Peter Cullen (Dublin) beat Alec Lambert (London). Cullen had all the best of each round after the second, and was a good winner.

Fifteen Rounds.—Miller (Liverpool) knocked out Doran (Inchicore) in the fifteenth round. This was a good bout, both men putting in every ounce. Doran had much the best of the opening rounds, but Miller drew ahead in the fifth and sixth, Doran losing by pulling his punches. They were level at the eleventh, but then Miller's better experience told and, outboxing his man, got home heavily with both hands to the head and body. In the fourteenth round Doran was badly punished, and was down for "three," being saved by the gong. He came up gamely, but was knocked out with a good right half-way through the final round.

Twenty 3-Minute Rounds, for Cruiser-Weight Championship of Ireland.—Jack Mahoney (Cork) beat Jack Phœnix (Blackrock) on points. This was a good set-to from the half-distance to the finish. The opening rounds were mostly confined to sparring, only a few good blows being struck. From the tenth meeting Mahoney did well and carried the fight to his man. Phœnix was superior in ringcraft and evaded punishment, but suffered badly in the close fighting. Both tired perceptibly, but fought on gamely, Mahoney gaining the verdict on points.

Fifteen 2-Minute Rounds.—Kid Doyle (Dublin) beat Bob Stout (Cork) on points. This was also a good exhibition. Both started briskly, Stout forcing the pace. However, he was outpointed, and in the eighth round was only saved by the gong. He fought back gamely and finished pluckily, though outboxed. The finish took place in semi-darkness.

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE V. LEINSTER.

A heavy shower which made the pitch at Terenure unplayable caused a cessation in the match between University College and Leinster before a definite result could be come to. University College batted first, and so slow was their progress that in an innings lasting 2¼ hours they scored only 83. The bowling of Harrington and Ryan—particularly the latter—was the chief cause of this. The feature of the innings was the sound display of J. Cussen, who batted two hours for 37 runs. Leinster had but a few minutes' batting, in the course of which they scored 15 runs without loss. Score:—

PEMBROKE V. DUBLIN CINEMA GUILD.

This match was played at Sydney Parade last evening, but no decision was arrived at, as when Pembroke had scored 164 for the loss of 9 wickets, and declared, heavy rain set in and made further play impossible. A return fixture has been arranged for the same venue on Monday next. Cinema Guild won the toss, but elected to give Pembroke first hand, on an easy wicket, and so well did the opening pair do that the score had reached 62 before the first wicket fell, Cordner skying one to Nash. Ruddle batted soundly, and, after a steady opening, then hit hard, getting a 6 and eight 4's in his 57 before falling to a very fine catch, almost on the ground, at third man. G. Nash, the Leinster man, took six wickets for 68, Mitchell 2 for 16, and Fagan 1 for 13. Score:—

At Sunderland, Commaille captained the South African side. Rain fell till two o'clock, when there were 6,000 spectators present. The half-yearly general meeting of the shareholders of the Provincial Bank of Ireland, Ltd., was held at the Shelbourne Hotel, Dublin, yesterday.

Mr. Richard D. Trotter (Chairman) presided, and the other directors present were:—Messrs. William T. Brand, Walter S. H. Burns, Robert John Fitzgerald, Alexander B. Leslie Melville, Captain George L. Poe, R.N., and R. Ashhurst Gradwell.

Mr. Hume Robertson (Secretary) read the report of the auditors and the statement of accounts, which showed that the profit for the half-year to June 30 (including £41,171 2s. 6d. brought forward from last account) amounted to £107,232 13s. 7d. Out of this a dividend of 14½ per cent. per annum, less income tax, was declared, which required £31,156 17s. 6d.

CHAIRMAN'S STATEMENT.

The Chairman said—I have pleasure in again addressing you, and in submitting on behalf of the board, a balance sheet which shows that the sound position of the bank is maintained, and the amount of divisible profit increasing, though I cannot say that we have yet reached, either in the Free State, or in Northern Ireland, the return of industrial activity which we are all awaiting so eagerly. You will have noticed that the figures in the balance sheet mark some contraction in general resources, but this, I think, follows not unexpectedly upon the disappointing results of last year's harvest—the restrictions on export of cattle owing to foot and mouth disease in England, and the effects of a long series of strikes, added to the completion of instalments of the National Loan, which was issued in December last, to the successful flotation of which I made reference at our last meeting. Compared with 12 months ago, our deposits are lower by £938,000, and it may be well to mention that the withdrawals under this head included some large deposits which were held temporarily. Advances are lower by £590,000 on the total of a year ago, but we still continue to show employment of a very substantial proportion of our deposits in trade and industry. Our circulation shows a fall of £142,000 on comparison with the figures of last year, but this is a fluctuating item which quickly responds to any demands of improving trade or industrial development. The changes in our holdings of cash and of securities do not require special comment. As a result of the half-year's working, we have added £10,000 to the reserve fund which now approaches closely to the total of our paid-up capital. We have placed £15,000 to the credit of the contingency account, written off bank premises account £10,000, and we have provided £31,156 for the dividend of 14½ per cent. per annum, less tax, as compared with £28,350 or 10½ per cent. free of tax, previously paid.

INCOME TAX DIFFICULTIES.

I cannot say that the difficulties incidental to the income tax position have yet been definitely cleared away, but we have been able to make considerable progress towards getting matters on a settled footing, and we have considered that the time has come when we may revert to the practice of paying our dividend, less tax. An increase in net profit has followed a lessening in working expenses, and has enabled us to declare the addition to the dividend which gives the proprietors, as explained in the report, a net increase of 1s. 4d. on each £100 shares (£12 10s. paid), and of 1s. on the £80 share (£10 paid). Before passing from this subject, I would like you to note that we have re-organised our income tax department, which is attached to the Grafton street Branch, and owing to expansion of business in that department, have placed it under new and more expert supervision of a highly qualified gentleman thoroughly versed in the intricacies and details of the Income Tax Acts. The department is available for shareholders and the public seeking assistance or advice in regard to the complex questions which are arising; and, where desired, claims for recovery of tax will, of course, also be carried through.

NEW PREMISES.

During the half-year, we have opened a permanent branch at Killarney, and we hope at an early date to transfer the business of our South Richmond street branch to the handsome new premises which are nearly ready for occupation. We are carrying out extensive alterations at our College street office, following the acquisition of adjoining premies; and, conditions being more favourable, we hope now to preceed with certain buildings which are needed for our business at two or three places in the country. I may add that the present value of our investments at market prices is considerably greater than the book cost shown in balance sheet, and that ample provision has been made for all bad and doubtful debts.

INDUSTRIAL DEPRESSION.

I have referred to the continued delay in trade expansion, and the decrease of £18,000,000 in the figures for the past six months of the Dublin Clearing House may fairly be taken as an indication of the commercial depression through which we are passing. It is reflected in the trade of the Free State as well as in return of the Exchequer of Northern Ireland. I feel convinced that, if the beneficent provisions of the Dairy Produce Bill are brought fully into operation, the desired improvement in the Irish butter trade should be firmly established, with far-reaching benefits to agriculturists and dairy farmers. Another measure deserving of special mention as being fraught with great possibilities for the Free State is the Trade Loans Bill, which has recently engaged the attention of the Dail. Beyond all this legislation, however, there remains the fact that the revival of trade and the development of industries, old or new, must be dependent upon the maintenance of peace and a widespread feeling of security.

AGRICULTURAL OUTLOOK.

At the present time the prospects for agriculture throughout the Free State seem to be largely dependent upon weather conditions, and we must hope that the desired improvement may now set in, in which case we have every reason to look forward to a bountiful harvest. To this hopeful outlook may be added the fact that there is a distinct improvement in the cattle trade.

A welcome feature in recent estimates is the increase of about 10 per cent. in the acreage under flax in Northern Ireland, giving a total of 54,000 or 55,000 acres for the crop. The advance in prices for last year's flax supplied the requisite incentive for farmers to extend the area under cultivation. Large orders, mainly from the United States, for dress linens caused activity in the Northern markets, with an advance in prices, but a scarcity of raw material is now affecting the position. However, we hope this shortage will soon be remedied and that we may look forward to a period of prosperity which has been long delayed.

In conclusion, I feel sure that you will agree that, in view of the difficult times we have passed through, our present figures show a very satisfactory result, which result is due to a great extent to the untiring efforts of our managers and the staff in general.

REVISED PENSIONS.

We have recently reviewed the position of our older officers on the retired list whose pensions were fixed prior to 1st December, 1919, and who were consequently at a disadvantage as compared with their colleagues whose retiring allowances were arranged after the special increase of salaries came into operation since that date. For some time past we have paid income tax on these pensions and a bonus of 20 per cent. We have now decided to merge this bonus in the pension as a permanent addition, and in the case of annuitants receiving less than £300 we have introduced a new standard which will give appreciable benefit in every instance. The cost to the bank is a fairly large amount in the aggregate, but we feel sure that you will fully appreciate the deserts of these old officials, most of whom had served the bank for very long periods and had claims to sympathetic consideration. The bank will continue to relieve the annuitants from income tax on these pensions.

There do not appear to be any other matters to which I should refer, and I now move that the report and statements of accounts for the half-year to 30th June last, as already sent to each shareholder, be confirmed and adopted.

I will be happy to answer any inquiries you may desire to make.

Mr. William T. Brand seconded the motion, which was adopted.

Sir George Roche said that he would like to say a few words of a friendly nature about the bank. As regards income tax, he had hoped that some arrangement would have been come to by the bank with the Governments here and in England to bring that down to a standard rate. Personally, he did not see why it should not be arranged. It did not matter much to some shareholders, but it did to others, particularly to ladies and widows. He knew of several cases of hardship. One woman who had £80 a year had 9s. 6d. in the £ deducted, and in order to get a refund of the amount to which she was entitled she had to pay 10 per cent. to an expert. Some arrangement ought to be made in this matter. He was glad that the reserve fund was nearly equal to the capital paid up; and he thought it was desirable that the shares should be split up, because they were at present rather high for people with small capital. It would be to the advantage of the bank to get in as many small shareholders as possible in order to increase the business of the bank. As regards the £15,000 for contingencies, he did not see why the shareholders should only get £31,000, while £15,000 went to the contingency account. That had been going on for years.

He thought that the meetings of the shareholders ought to be held in the bank instead of going to the expense of hiring a room there. All the other banks held their meetings at the banks; and next year they would be entering upon their centenary, and he trusted that that bank would also hold its meeting on its own premises.

Referring to the decrease in advances, he thought that, having regard to the fact that this country was now a Free State, there ought to be a local board in Dublin. There were lots of matters which might be better dealt with locally. The National Bank had a local board. Arising out of that, he saw where they had appointed a manager in London, and he hoped that that would mean more work, but less work for their friend, the secretary.

Alderman Hubbard Clark, City High Sheriff, said that he thought the balance sheet for the half-year should be considered satisfactory. It was generally admitted that banking institutions throughout Ireland were in a prosperous and satisfactory condition, and naturally the shareholders were pleased. A matter that was causing complaint was that Irish banks were charging a higher rate of interest for the loan of money in Ireland than was charged by the banks in Great Britain. If the banks could dispel that impression it would be well to do so, as it would encourage that confidence which was so essential to the well-being of the State. He, personally, was not under that impression.

HEAD OFFICE OF THE BANK.

Mr. W. S. Colles, as a very old customer of the bank, congratulated the directors on the report. He thought it was a matter worthy of consideration as to whether the head office of the bank should not be removed from England to Ireland, having regard to the changed conditions in this country. Politics, as they all knew, had a considerable influence on business, and there was a great jealousy in Ireland as to any Irish business which was conducted altogether from England. He was not saying that for himself, because he thought that the directors' policy had brought the bank to a very high standard of success; but people would say, "Why not go to an Irish bank instead of to an English company?" They would say there were the Hibernian Bank, the Munster and Leinster Bank and the Bank of Ireland; and he thought that in the course of time that feeling might tell against the prosperity of that bank. He thought it was a matter for consideration whether it was desirable or possible to bring the whole business of the bank over to the Free State. The suggestion of Sir George Roche, to have a local board of directors, was one that had been adopted by the National Bank. They had also to consider the question of people paying double income tax.

CHAIRMAN'S REPLY.

The Chairman, in reply, said that income tax for 1924-1925 was not yet settled. Income tax for 1923-1924 had been agreed to. This bank was not alone in the matter. Many companies were having considerable difficulty in getting the income tax question adjusted, and it was partly for this reason that they had now taken on an expert—a man who had very considerable experience in this work—in the bank, and it was hoped that people would give him assistance and that they would get this question adjusted. Nobody, however, was liable for more than the larger of the two taxes eventually. Claims for recoupment could be made at a cost of 5 per cent. As regards the contingency account mentioned by Sir George Roche and the High Sheriff's remarks about confidence in the banks, he thought, if that feeling of confidence was to continue, that a contingency account was necessary; also a reserve fund. The dividend this year was increased; but it could not be said that all the difficulties had yet been cleared away in Ireland, so that a contingency account was not required. As regards the rate of interest charged on loans, the rate charged in London was generally on securities such as Treasury bills and War Loan, and he did not think it was fair to compare those with industrial securities, which went up and down considerably. He did not think that the same rate of interest should be charged on these two classes of securities.

As regards the point about bringing the head office of the bank to Ireland and about having a local board here, these questions had been considered very carefully for a number of years, and recently they had been carefully considered again. Before anything could be done in either case—the formation of a local board or the removal of the whole bank over here—the whole question would have to be gone into very carefully, not only by the board, but also, if there was a considerable feeling among the shareholders for either of these two changes to be made, if they came together and met the directors, he was sure that the board would be pleased to go into the matter with them. At the same time, he would like to say that there were a number of difficulties involved and that the cost would be very considerable—thousands of pounds. The shares did not appear to be falling very seriously in the market—in fact, recently they increased a point or more—and there still seemed a very considerable demand from small holders to buy the shares. That did not point to great opposition to the fact that the board was out of Ireland, and the figures of the last balance sheet did not show it either. Those points had arisen frequently, and when the directors and managers had seen shareholders it was very seldom that any of them asked for a change in the present system; they generally said that things were going on very well.

The Hon. Sir William H. Goschen, K.B.E., and Mr. Robert John Fitzgerald were re-elected directors.

On the motion of Sir George Roche, seconded by Mr. W. S. Colles, a hearty vote of thanks was passed to the Chairman and directors.

The Chairman suitably replied.

A vote of thanks was passed to the staffs of the bank, on the motion of the High Sheriff, seconded by Mr. J. F. Boydell.

The Secretary acknowledged the vote, and the meeting ended.

MUNSTER AND LEINSTER BANK.

THE DISCUSSION.

At the meeting of the Munster and Leinster Bank in Cork (presided over by Mr. T. B. Lillis, Managing Director, whose speech appeared in full in our issue of yesterday), the directors present were—The Right Hon. Sir Stanley Harrington, Messrs. A. R. McMullen, H.C.; Charles Eustace Murphy and Ed. Hallinan. The shareholders present included Edmund B. Dillon, Thomas Stack, T.C.; Miss Mary Lynch, John F. Corkeran (Blarney), John English, James Murphy (Magazine road), Jerome J. Beechinor, Miss Katherine Beechinor, John T. O'Regan, Denis Fitzpatrick, John Simkins, John P. Howard, John M. O'Riordan, William S. Harrington, Braham E. Sutton, Jeremiah Ryan, M.D.; John Dorgan, Sir John H. Scott, James W. Harold, Wm. P. Hall, George Crosbie, Henry H. Hill, Dominic J. Daly, and Andrew Kelleher (Ballineen).

After the report had been moved and seconded,

Sir John Scott said that once more the shareholders had reason to congratulate themselves on the highly satisfactory report of the half-year's working presented by the directors. He need not say that just now their country was suffering from a great set-back in its trade and commerce and agriculture, and the banks would, he felt sure, recognise the necessity of facilitating every effort made to improve the present state of things. In conclusion, he expressed the pleasure of the shareholders at seeing Mr. Lillis presiding over them that day. They felt sure, and they knew, that so long as he was there the interests of the bank and its customers could not be in safer hands.

The motion was adopted unanimously.

Mr. Braham Sutton proposed that the best thanks of the meeting be given to the directors and officers for their efficient services during the past half-year. In doing so, he said, it had been his privilege for some time past to be the medium of conveying to the directors and officers the thanks of the shareholders; but he thought that on no occasion were the chairman, his co-directors and the officers more worthy of the heartiest thanks and appreciation of the shareholders than at the present meeting for the splendid balance sheet they had put before them, and for the proud and stable position they found the bank in to-day. (Hear, hear.) This country in common with others had been passing through a period of very severe trade depression, and this, coupled with crushing taxation, must naturally be a period of the greatest anxiety for the chairman and those with him in controlling a vast financial concern such as theirs. That was one of the reasons why the shareholders offered them their heartiest congratulations. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. T. Stack seconded.

The Chairman said they were all pleased to hear the remarks regarding the staff, which had their full and hearty concurrence. (Hear, hear.) He did not think that any bank was better served from the point of view of the loyalty and efficiency of the staff of every grade from top to bottom. (Hear, hear.) In the vast majority of cases the interests of the bank were as dear to the individual members of the staff as their own.

The motion was passed, and the Secretary (Mr. S. G. Harris) having briefly replied on behalf of the staff, the meeting ended.

BELFAST COMMISSION.

DECREASE OF CRIME.

Addressing the Grand Jury at the opening of the Belfast City Commission yesterday, the Lord Chief Justice said that there were 98 cases to go before them, representing 74 prisoners; but when he told them that those bills represented the very ordinary crime of a great city, and that there was not a single case which called for special mention by him, he thought they would agree that they had every reason to be thankful for the happy state of affairs which now existed.

There was one case of riot and there were six of robbery and assault combined. The returns of specially reported cases by the Constabulary showed a decrease of 21 as compared with the corresponding year, which had also shown a very large decrease on the period for 1922. The number of reported cases for housebreaking was 39, which was a very remarkable decrease—more than half—in a city where a great many people lived away from their shops.

Virtually all classes of crime, with the exception of larceny and obtaining money and goods by false pretences, showed a decrease.

CLONMEL MAN'S DEATH AT LOURDES.

News reached Clonmel yesterday that Mr. P. Harnett, tailor and outfitter, Clonmel, who left with his wife last week on a pilgrimage to Lourdes, died at Lourdes yesterday morning after a brief illness, and will be buried there in compliance with his dying request. Mr. Harnett was a young, active man, and was apparently in good health when leaving Clonmel.

VISITORS TO DUBLIN.

Hundreds of visitors are arriving in Dublin daily in connection with the Glasgow "Fair" holidays, which started last week-end. There is also a heavy passenger service between Liverpool and Dublin by the British and Irish steamers. Yesterday some 400 excursionists arrived in Dublin from the Isle of Man, and 410 passengers left Dublin for Douglas last evening. About 300 of the visitors were day trippers, who spent about four hours in the city.

Mr. Sean McGrath, who was sentenced at the same time as Mr. Art O'Brien, was also released.

[Our London Correspondent, in a message we published last Monday, foreshadowed this step, and stated that no conditions were to be attached to the release of the prisoners.]

FAITH-HEALING.

DECISION OF THE BRITISH MEDICAL COUNCIL.

The Council of the British Medical Association, sitting privately at Bradford yesterday, had under consideration the appeal made by the Archbishop of York last Tuesday that the Council should inaugurate a full and impartial inquiry into the relations of the body and spirit in the cure of disease.

At the conclusions of the deliberations, a communication was issued stating that the Council has had before it the report of the preliminary investigations of the committee recently appointed to enquire in what way, if any, the Association might be of assistance in the elucidation of what has been described as spiritual healing, or ministry of healing.

The Council believe that the difficulties, with which the matter is at present surrounded, are likely to lead the investigation outside the sphere of the recognised activities of the Association, and, after deliberation, has decided not to proceed with the re-appointment of the committee.

IRISH GAME PROTECTION.

At a special meeting of the Committee of the Irish Game Protection Association yesterday, the following resolution was adopted:—"That a general meeting of the members of the association should be convened during Horse Show Week (Thursday, 9th August, at 110 Grafton street), for the purpose of making representation to the Government, pointing out the value of the national asset that the game of the country represents and the necessity for the maintenance of the Game Laws, with the enforcement of revenue gun and game licences." A financial statement of the association's present position was submitted and passed.

THE LATE MR. T. O'MAHONY.

The funeral of the late Mr. T. O'Mahony, Shamount, Fermoy, a member of the Dail Eireann for East Cork, took place on Tuesday at Kilcrumper, near Fermoy. Requiem High Mass was celebrated in St. Patrick's Church before the remains were removed to the cemetery. The Government was represented by Mr. J. Dolan, Parliamentary Secretary to President Cosgrave, and Colonel O'Reilly represented the President. The Urban Council and Free State ex-soldiers marched in the procession.

The chief mourners included:—Mrs. O'Mahony, widow; Messrs. Eugene, Robert, and Donald O'Mahony, sons; Miss May O'Mahony, daughter; Messrs. Stephen, Robert, Richard, and Eugene O'Mahony, brothers, and Mrs. Lysaght, sister.

The large general attendance included members of the Dail and local bodies.

ARMY DEBATE IN THE DAIL.

REMARKABLE ALLEGATIONS ABOUT THE "KENMARE INCIDENT."

BARRACK FURNITURE MISSING.

QUESTIONS.

CUSTOMS OFFICERS AT KINGSTOWN.

The Speaker took the chair at 3.11 o'clock.

Replying to Maj Bryan Cooper, President Cosgrave said that Customs Preventive Staff employed at the pier at Dun Laoghaire consisted of one officer and eight men. The staff had been increased by two additional men since the 12th inst., to enable it to deal with holiday traffic more expeditiously.

Major Cooper asked whether the eight men included two who were employed to see that passengers submitted their luggage for examination, leaving only six men to examine the luggage, and whether the President considered that number sufficient to search the luggage of a thousand passengers.

President Cosgrave said that he could not say if the eight men included the two referred to, but he would have an inspection of the service carried out very soon.

"CONGESTS."

Answering a question by Mr. Milroy, the Minister for Lands and Agricul ure stated that under the Land Act of 1925 some 350,000 acres of untenanted land had been acquired, and 2,000 acres had been acquired under a previous Act. The land would be utilised mainly for the relief of congestion. It was not possible to state approximately how long the work of distributing and dividing would take.

THE FIRST ANSWER.

Major Bryan Cooper asked whether, in view of the interest taken in the findings of the Committee that was examining the accounts of the Controller-General, it was proposed to issue a further report.

Mr. Thomas Johnson (Chairman of the Labour Party, and also of the Committee) replied that the interim report issued only dealt with a small matter. It was not proposed to issue a further report at present. The Committee had gone through a number of accounts, and was now in the middle of the Army accounts, and it would not be possible to issue a report until after the recess.

THE BUTTER BILL.

The Dairy Produce Bill was considered on the report stage, on which there were nine amendments for the most part embodying agreements as to details arrived at in earlier debates.

The House accepted a Government amendment providing that while a creamery is bringing in, under licence, butter other than Irish creamery butter, that creamery cannot at the same time use the national brand.

A Government amendment to the third schedule sought to have the annual fee for butter exported fixed at one penny per 28 lbs., as it was in the first draft of the bill. In Committee the fee was reduced from one penny to one halfpenny.

On a division the amendment was passed by 22 votes to 15.

A further amendment having been agreed to, the report stage was adjourned till the 15th October.

ARMY ESTIMATES.

THE "KENMARE CASE."

The debate on the Army Estimates was resumed by Mr. Johnson, who moved that the vote be reduced by £1,000 in order that he might raise a question about administration in respect to what had become known as the Kenmare Case.

Mr. Johnson quoted from the newspaper Eire a statement which, he said was the first time that any allegations had been made public in regard to the matter. It was stated that two ladies, daughters of a local medical practitioner, had been dragged out of their beds by four Free State officers, brought into the garden in their night attire, and flogged with belts. Their hair was afterwards smeared with cart grease.

The next morning, an investigation having taken place, a lieutenant found in the grounds a revolver which was declared to be the property of Major-General O'Daly. A deputation from the town, including the Free State Solicitor, went to Dublin the following day, and the Minister for Home Affairs was interviewed. General Mulcahy was sent for and informed of the allegations, and directed to place under arrest some of the officers who were in Dublin on leave. He undertook to do so.

COURT OF INQUIRY.

The matter came before the Executive Council, who ordered that an inqury should take place, but when the courtmartial met there was no one to give evidence as all the witnesses had been rushed away to different parts of the country, and the whole thing collapsed.

It had been stated in the Dail, said Mr. Johnson, in defence of that inaction, that the legal advisers had decided that there was not sufficient evidence to bring the matter into court. The allegation that witnesses who were to have given evidence had been dispersed and made unavailable was, to his mind, one that would have fo be answered. The House would want to know what had been done for the ladies who had been maltreated, and whether it had been left to their own discretion to bring a charge in the courts against some person or persons unknown.

Was it admitted by the Executive Council that soldiers had maltreated the ladies, that no regret or apology had been expressed, and that on other action had been taken to disown responsibility on behalf of the Executive Council was satisfied that there was no case? there had been no evidence against the persons who had been charged with being implicated in the offence? He wanted to know whether officers concerned had been allowed to remain in the army long after the incident, and, if so, was it because the Executive Council was satisfied that there were no case? If there was not satisfactory evidence from the legal point of view would those officers be in the position of other officers who had been demobilised in regard to pensions?

He asked for a complete statement from the Minister responsible, and from the Minister for Defence on the refusal of the Executive Council to publish the report of the Chairman of the Army Inquiry Committee and the evidence.

PRESIDENT'S REPLY.

President Cosgrave said that the Executive had had the case—or rather some allegations concerning this case—under consideration, and the relative files and documents had been sent to the Attorney-General for his advice. The Executive Council had acted on that advice, and there the responsibility of the Executive Council began and ended. If the Executive Council had not taken the advice of the law adviser it would have had to get rid of him. In that case they had taken that advice, and it was not intended to publish the advice that was given to them.

The Army Inquiry did not get the Attorney-General's advice, but was informed that such matters as that would not be disclosed and that he (the President) would take personal responsibility for the refusal to disclose confidential matters which came before the Executive Council.

Mr. Johnson said that no doubt the law adviser gave his opinion on the evidence placed before him, but was all the evidence available given to him?

President Cosgrave said that he believed that it was. He did not remember any statement or allegation being made that any evidence was withheld. Speaking from recollection he should say that nothing was withheld.

General Mulcahy said that the most exhaustive inquiries were made in the matter by very responsible officers. It was quite in keeping with the trend of the article in Eire, to say that witnesses were made to disappear, and were not available when the Court of Inquiry sat on the matter. That was utterly untrue. Most exhaustive inquiry was made, and a verbatim note of every scrap of evidence that could be given, together with all information possessed by the Adjutant-General, was placed before the Attorney-General. He made a summing up of the case and gave his advice.

Mr. W. Davin asked if the Executive Council had before them, or whether they invited from the parties alleged to have been maltreated, any evidence in support of the charge. He also failed to understand why the President should regard as confidential a matter of that kind, all the details (or rumours) of which were generally known in County Kerry.

EVERY DOCUMENT.

President Cosgrave said that every document and every statement in connection with the case that came before any member of the Executive Council, or before the Executive Council itself, was furnished to the law adviser.

Mr. Davin asked whether that included any document, or evidence, from the parties on whom the outrage was supposed to have been committed?

President Cosgrave—I say every statement we received from any person concerned in the case was sent to the Law Adviser.

Mr. Davin said that that was not exactly an answer to his question.

General Mulcahy said that the parties who had complained, and all the witnesses that they desired to bring forward, came forward and gave formal evidence before two very definite sittings of the Court, one held by the police authorities and the other by the military authorities. All the evidence was before the Attorney-General.

President Cosgrave said that he had a responsibility for establishing a precedent in connection with matters that came before the Executive Council—matters that should be confidential and should not be disclosed. Once a precedent was made, his successors would be in the same position, and he did not want in that or any other matter to make any precedent that would be a serious drawback to the person succeeding him in his position. To that extent he was particularly jealous of keeping in the strictest possible confidence matters that came before the Executive Council as such, and to that extent his answers should necessarily be reticent.

General Mulcahy said that in the evidence he had given to the Army inquiry he had made it quite clear that he was prepared to have that evidence removed from the report, if there was anything that could be regarded as a breach of confidence with the Executive Council. If there was any tinge of a breach he submitted that it was drawn from him by the insinuations and allegations made in a most unwarrantable way by very lying and insidious tongues against the honour of men who, as Army officers, had rendered valuable and distinguished service to the State.

NOT SATISFACTORY.

Mr. P. F. Baxter (Farmers' Party) said that the President's reply was not satisfactory. He gathered that the Executive Council had decided not to take action in that case. He did not know whether the evidence that went before the Attorney-General was put before the Executive Council also, or whether only his opinion was put before them. Apparently the Army Inquiry Committee had sufficient evidence to arrive at the point of view that General Mulcahy had been guilty of a grave error of judgment in deciding to hush up the case.

President Cosgrave repeated that the Executive Council held back nothing. Every tittle of evidence available to them was submitted to the Attorney-General.

Mr. Osmond Grattan Esmonde said that at the inquiry Deputy Mulcahy was accused of a grave error of judgment because of a decision that was taken by the Executive Council on the advice of the Attorney-General.

Mr. MacGilligan (Minister for Industry and Commerce) said that the case went through several stages, and was finally dropped on the advice of the Attorney-General.

Mr. Esmonde—Then why accuse General Mulcahy?

General Mulcahy—Why say "dropped"?

Mr. Davin (Labour) said that he had been speaking to men who served in the Army in Kerry, and had certain knowledge of what was supposed to have taken place. It was to be regretted that certain things did take place, and that Army officers had taken responsibility for acts which that House and the Government could not stand over. It should be made clear by the President that the State did not stand for those things.

President Cosgrave said that he thought that it was fairly evident from what transpired during the last twelve or eighteen months that the Government prosecuted, without discrimination any officers, whether they rendered good service pre-Truce or post-Truce, against whom accusations were made; and if every officer had not been prosecuted, the same applied to people who were not officers. He thought that there was no doubt in the minds of the Army that the same law applied to them as to the ordinary man in the street.

CROSS-EXAMINATION.

Mr. Johnson said that they had it from the Ministry that all the evidence available to the Ministry was placed before the Attorney-General, and that his judgment was that there was no such evidence as to justify any action in the Courts.

President Cosgrave—I would like to make it perfectly clear that that is not my statement. My statement is that the Executive Council acted on the advice of the Attorney-General. I claim privilege for not disclosing, and must claim privilege for not disclosing, these matters.

Mr. Johnson—I assume from what is said that all the evidence was presented before the Attorney-General, and, acting thereon, he advised the Ministry that it was not of a character to justify prosecution.

President Cosgrave—That is not my statement. I do not deny it, nor do I affirm it.

Mr. Johnson said that he assumed that the President was taking on himself the responsibility for not having initiated the prosecution. He refused to put that blame or responsibility on the Attorney-General that there was not sufficient evidence to warrant a prosecution. No prosecution having taken place, it was the direct responsibility of the Executive Council, without regard to what the Attorney-General said.

President Cosgrave—I have not said that either.

Mr. Johnson said that the House could judge. The fact was that there was insufficient evidence to warrant a charge against particular persons, and that serious steps had been taken to inquire into the matter. But it was not denied specifically that the maltreatment had occurred, and that soldiers had entered the house of those ladies, had taken those ladies from their beds, and had beaten them with belts. He wanted to know what action the Ministry had taken to show those ladies that the Ministry reprobated any such action, and would have punished the offenders.

SUGGESTED INVENTION.

Mr. Mulcahy—I suggest that this story is invented. Where is it suggested that any girls were taken out of their beds? From my knowledge, I do deny that there was any evidence that soldiers were mixed up in the matter at all. I cannot help feeling that, from the general recital of this case in the Irregular paper, that Deputy Johnson is endeavouring to get information which the President has stated is privileged.

President Cosgrave—If the deputy invites me to reprobate the assault, if there was an assault, I certainly do. Whether by soldiers or civilians, I reprobate most strongly any sort of assault on ladies.

Mr. Hewat said that he wondered whether it was wise for Deputy Johnson to bring up the matter again, although he was perfectly within his rights in raising it on the Army Vote. He considered that it was hardly wise on the part of the deputy, unless his information was founded on facts, to open up another discussion when the whole state of things must have been before the Committee of Inquiry into Army affairs. It was not wise to use the Army question as an explosive force which was very, very dangerous to handle. The Army should not be brought into the region of politics more than was absolutely necessary. There was no apparent demand from anyone that was injured—if anyone was injured—and no statement that injury had been done.

Mr. Johnson said that he knew nothing about the matter, except that appeared in the report of the Committee, until a detailed statement of the case in question was put into his hand by a responsible citizen—not of the camp which might be suggested. He held that it was his duty to protest against the inaction of the Executive Council in the matter, even as it had just been disclosed by the President.

Mr. Davin said that Deputy Hewat should understand that the Army question was not raised by the Labour Party.

Mr. Mulcahy said that he would support the motion to reduce the estimates if it were because they had not got the evidence at the Army inquiry and the report of the Chairman of the Inquiry Committee. He could not support a motion based on the Kenmare case.

The President said that he would supply the note of the evidence given at the inquiry to Deputy Johnson or any responsible member of his party, or to any member of Mr. McGrath's party, or of any party, if it were treated as confidential. In his opinion, it was not in the public interest that the evidence should be disclosed publicly.

Mr. Johnson said that he could not accept an offer of the kind, because it would mean that his mouth would be closed should he get information from other sources.

The Minister for Industry and Commerce said that in all that Deputy Johnson had read out to the Dail there was only one item at all relating to the Army inquiry. That was the statement that witnesses had been dispersed who could have given evidence. The Committee of Inquiry was convinced that there was no truth in that statement.

The amendment to reduce the vote was then put to a division, and rejected by 32 to 12.

REORGANISATION.

Mr. Davin asked what was the position with regard to the scheme of Army reorganisation. A very definite statement should be made by the President in reply to the ex-Minister for Defence—who gave it as his opinion that the scheme of reorganisation now being put into operation was such as did not meet the requirements of the situation. He further expressed the opinion that the time had come for the Executive Council to find another Minister for Defence to take from the already overloaded shoulders of the President the heavy burden of responsibility for the Army.

President Cosgrave said that any imperfections in the scheme would be observed in six or nine months. It did not necessarily follow that they would have a new scheme in twelve, nine, or six months. The scheme was thought to be the best at the moment.

Mr. Davin said that he accepted the President's statement as evidence that it was only a temporary scheme. He would like to know who was responsible for the drawing up of the scheme Officers in the Army felt insecure, because they believed that it was a temporary scheme. President Cosgrave said that the scheme was a permanent one—just as permanent as the Civil Service or the police force. Any reorganisation that would take place could not affect the officers' position. The ability, the proficiency, and qualifications of officers would ensure their retention in the Army. If it were necessary during the next two, three, four, or five years to furnish a better scheme, that would not affect the commissions held by officers in the Army, and there was no excuse for officers to say that the reorganisation of the Army made their commissions insecure. The officers should recognise that it was in the power of the Government to reorganise the Army in any way they thought best.

The new scheme was put forward by the General Officer Commanding after consultation with other officers of the Army, and his opinion was that the scheme would give satisfaction.

NEW MINISTER FOR DEFENCE.

The Executive Council had the matter under consideration for a short time only. The Council, as they knew, was not at full strength, and with the heavy legislative programme it had not met as often as he would have wished. It was his intention, before the recess, to put before the Dail the name of a deputy for the office of Minister for Defence.

Mr. Esmonde contended that the facts and figures in the estimates did not bear any relation to the policy stated by the President—that the Army was for the purpose of defending the State against internal or external aggression. The defence forces, as at present constituted, could not defend the State from external aggression. They were placing the country in a position of inferiority—more in the position of a Protectorate than a sovereign State. Within the estimate there was adequate money to create a really efficient Army. Many countries were spending less for much larger armies.

If they added the amount of the Army estimates to those of the Civic Guard and the Dublin Metropolitan Police, they would find they were paying £5,500,000 for the purpose of keeping order in the country. It was not creditable for any country to pay one-fifth of its total revenue to keep order within its borders.

Mr. Mulcahy asked what arrangements had been made to have one Irish-speaking battalion out of the 27 battalions, and why it was found necessary that the Professor of Music of the National University, who had been asked by him to advise on the school of music, should be discourteously pushed aside since he (Mr. Mulcahy) left the Ministry. The school was now entirely in the hands of a director, and, in his opinion, it introduced a danger to leave the school, to a big extent, in the hands of even so distinguished and cultured a foreigner, who, no doubt, fully appreciated their music.

The President said that he would make inquiries about the Irish-speaking battalion. With respect to the School of Music, he considered that the Army ought to be able to look after itself with regard to music and everything else. If they continued to retain one particular professor there might be an outcry from the other professors, and that was the objection he had to having one particular professor advising the School of Music.

MEDICAL SERVICE.

On a vote for the Army Medical Service, set out at £61,780 and showing a decrease of £12,333, Major Bryan Cooper said that the sum allocated meant one medical officer for every 100 men in time of peace, whereas in the British Army there was only one medical officer for every 300 men even in time of war. He thought that it would be more economic to employ a local medical officer who would devote part of his time to Army work. It was wasteful to keep a whole-time medical officer for a small number of soldiers.

President Cosgrave said that he would admit that it was certainly a very expensive service, but it would be well to recollect that they had passed through period which saddled them with a considerable number of pensions. They were now using St. Bricin's Hospital for men no longer exclusively in the Army and for men who had left the service. As it stood, the item compared favourably with the cost per head in the British Army for medical service. The service on the face of it looked a very costly one, but he hoped that in next year's estimate it might be possible to reduce it. In addition to the persons in St. Bricin's Hospital there had also to be considered the cases of wound pensions. The medical officers had a responsibility in that, and they had increased the number of boards to three.

The vote was passed.

The item lodging allowances, £55,811, showed an increase of £40,811.

Major Bryan Cooper asked the President to consider the advisability of introducing a regulation by which lodging allowances and marriage allowances would not be issued until a minimum of service had been reached.

President Cosgrave said that he would undertake to bring the matter before the next Minister for Defence.

COMPENSATION.

Mr. Baxter asked whether the Ministry undertook liability for payment in respect of any properties that passed from the Republican Army to the National Army, and were still being used by the National Army.

The President said that he was not so sure that he could give an answer to that. He was informed that when the Damage to Property Act was passed receipts were freely furnished by people who were in arms against the State, so that they could be produced before the Courts. They would have to inquire into the bona fides of persons and whether an account came from a contractor, a business man, or somebody else, or if it was held in trust for some person who was against the State.

He was informed that some people who were engaged against the State two years ago had plenty of money and could buy farms although they had not worked. There was a suspicion as to where the money came from, and he did not intend to let such people have another fling for eighteen months more. The sooner they settled down to earn an honest living the better

He would consider any claims carefully where Free State soldiers entered into possession of any property. Any claims that ought to be paid would be paid.

On the vote for warlike stores, Mr. Davin asked what was the reason for the increase from £115,000 in 1923 to £136,000 in 1924. Did it mean that an outbreak of hostilities, either from the North-East or internally was anticipated?

President Cosgrave replied that he had not the slightest apprehension of any disorders either on the North-East border or within the State. They entered on 1923 with a considerable stock of warlike stores on hand, and now overhauling and replacements had to be carried out. The amount of ammunition provided for in the vote was about ten shillings worth per man in the Army. The vote was a normal one, which he anticipated would appear on the estimates for years to come.

On the vote for barrack services, Mr. Mulcahy raised what he said was the very important question of the necessity for a "dry canteen," where soldiers can get tea or coffee or suppers. Some time ago he had asked why the contractors for those canteens were required to be licensed traders, and he had got the reply that in some cases the barrack accommodation made it necessary for the "wet" and the "dry" canteens to be in the same room. He was also informed that from an administrative point of view it was more desirable that the same trader should have both classes of canteen.

He now pressed his conviction that the "wet" and "dry" canteens should not be in the same room in any of their barracks. Where the accommodation was such as to necessitate that arrangement there should be no "wet" canteen. (Hear, hear.) The existing arrangement meant that the young soldier had to have his cup of tea with rows of glasses containing whiskey or porter in front of him. That was not fair to the young men or to the whole atmosphere of barrack life. They all knew what sort of tea or coffee would be supplied in a "dry" canteen in charge of a licensed trader, and how unattractive the "dry" canteen would be made.

THE CANTEEN FUND.

Mr. Davin said that he understood that the present contractor for the "dry" and "wet" canteens had paid an enormous amount of money into the Canteen Fund, and he thought that some report should be put into the hands of the members of the Dail to show how the fund was conducted, and into whose hands the money eventually found its way.

With respect to military stores, he said that he had documentary evidence to show that there was no check on the furniture in the barracks. He understood that furniture and silver which had been used in the officers' messes, and had been handed over to them by the British, were removed to the houses of private individuals.

President Cosgrave said that he would inquire into the question of the canteens, and see if some more perfect system could not be adopted. Where accommodation only provided room for one canteen, he would consider whether it would not be in the best interests of the Army to have only a "dry" canteen.

If Deputy Davin had gone to him and given him the information which he had just given to the Dail, no names would have been published. Those things were very important, and if the deputy gave him the details he could deal with them. Otherwise it would take a long time for them to reach that stage of discipline, efficiency, and perfection that they aimed at. The names would not be disclosed.

"CLINKED."

Mr. Davin—In one case where an officer attempted to interfere with the removal of furniture from the barracks he was put in "clink" in the Curragh.

The President—I would have liked that that would have been brought to my notice. I would be very glad to get any information of goods taken out of barracks, and it would have a very wholesome effect if it were known that we are on the track of any property stolen from the State—apart from the disciplinary advantage that it would be. We will never get to normal circumstances unless it is known that no man has a right to any property except his own.

Major Bryan Cooper—Does that apply to goods taken from commandeered premises?

The President—It does.

Mr. Davin asked the President if he would give him an assurance that the officers who would give the information would not be victimised.

The President—I undertake that while I am in office—and I am sure I can speak for my successor—that there will be no victimisation of officers.

Major Bryan Cooper called attention to the difficulty that traders had in getting payment of accounts.

Mr. Mulcahy said that they should remember the difficulties of the Army finance office, which had to deal with accounts contracted during the war period. No one would ever know the difficulties that that department had to contend with.

Mr. Johnson said that he had his attention called to certain reputable firms that sent in accounts which were grossly over-charged, and it was the view of the Public Accounts Committee that the names of the firms should be published in the report of that Committee.

President Cosgrave said that there was quite a number of cases in which one could scarcely rely on the certificates of officers. He did not wish to make imputations against anyone, but it was well known that certain officers, quite innocently and with no knowledge of business methods, had given certificates freely. When that became known in the finance office extra precautions had to be taken. He thought that, on the whole, the office had worked well under the circumstances, and within the next few months they ought to be free from all these accounts. The vote was passed.

PENSIONS.

On the vote of £74,500 to complete the estimate of £112,500 for Army pensions, President Cosgrave stated that the total amount paid in wound pensions, gratuities and further pensions to wounded officers, volunteers, and members of the Citizen Army of 1916, for the quarter ending 30th June last, was £9,205; allowances and gratuities were £8,346. The other items were inconsiderable, and the total amount for three months was £17,566.

Mr. D. Morrissey complained of the amount of compensation awarded to dependents of soldiers killed during the last two years. He knew cases where the mother or father of a soldier was offered from £10 upwards. He suggested that the President should look into these cases.

Mr. Johnson said that sufficient account was not taken of the circumstances under which working - class families. In granting allowances for the death of a young soldier the authorities should consider the possibilities of that young man in the direction of helping not alone his parents, but his younger brothers and sisters.

Mr. A. Byrne drew attention to some cases of hardship, including one arising through the death of a young man in the Custom House fight. He appealed for more sympathetic treatment by the Pensions Committee, and went on to say that the dependents of men who had given their lives for their country should not be treated like dogs.

SHARP REBUKE.

President—That statement ought to be withdrawn. It is an untrue statement, and untrue to the knowledge of the deputy. This is not a place for propaganda. Posturing like that does not improve an Act of Parliament.

Mr. Byrne—I know the President does not want to hear of those cases. I know those people are not getting sufficient to keep them alive, and I know that the Minister is satisfied that the awards made are not sufficient. I did not use the words "treated like dogs" in any offensive strain.

President—Respectful, I suppose.

Mr. Byrne—With the greatest respect I say it. (Laughter.) It is of the disrespect of his officials I am speaking.

President—They are not officials who allow the pensions.

Mr. Byrne went on to mention other cases, when the Speaker called him to order. The deputy continued his remarks until the Speaker said to him that it should not be necessary for him to rule over and over again that a deputy was not in order.

Mr. Byrne then resumed his seat.

President Cosgrave said that if he got a fair case he was prepared to look into it at any time. But Deputy Byrne had come there on two occasions with the one case. He did not know what Deputy Byrne did that for except to amuse himself.

Deputy A. Byrne asked was that a proper remark for the President to use towards him.

The President said that if the deputy wanted to advertise himself he was not going to assist him.

The Committee had to consider that the maximum for dependency under the Act was £100, and they had to graduate below that. Recently he had not sanctioned any sum less than £50, but some time ago there were smaller awards. The Committee had to establish some sort of a scale of dependency. In every single case he himself had read through the particulars from beginning to end. In the Saorstat those were supplied by the D.M.P. or the Civic Guard, and outside it by the police or a reliable charitable organisation. Deputy Byrne was wrong in his figures in regard to the number of tuberculosis cases. That was another instance of every attempt to discount the Government by saying that they had the money and would not pay it out.

In reply to Mr. Johnson, the President regretted that nothing had been done with regard to vocational training, but he was willing to receive suggestions.

The House adjourned at 10.30 until 3 o'clock to-day.

Letter from Mr. Chas. E. Morris.

Mr. Chas. E. Morris, of 47, Goodhall Street, Willesden Junction, London, N.W. 10, writes as follows:—"I feel it is my duty to let you know what a wonderful result Dr. Cassell's Tablets have had in my case. After having served in the Army I obtained work on the railway, but my health was ruined by my experiences in the Army, and I became a nervous wreck. I was uninterested in anything, and medicine did me no good. I finally made up my mind to try Dr. Cassell's Tablets, and I am very thankful that I did so, for it was not long before I felt a different man altogether.

"My wife, who for two and a half years was in a low state as a result of pneumonia, has also commenced taking the Tablets, and she feels the benefit of them greatly. I shall never fail to recommend Dr. Cassell's Tablets to any of my friends who need the help that I know from experience they give."

POLITICAL NOTES.

HOW THE THIRTY-NINE BILLS STAND.

By Our Political Correspondent.

Both Houses of the Oireachtas will sit to-day—the Senate to consider the final stages of over a dozen bills, in addition to private motions and committee reports of various kinds, and the Dail to resume consideration of the Estimates, and to give first readings to two or three non-controversial measures.

The intention of the Government now is to ask the Dail on Friday to adjourn for a week, or less, and then to re-assemble to give its approval to the various bills at present in the Senate. If, however, the Upper House is able to dispose of the business now in its hands by the middle of next week, it is possible that the Dail will meet about Thursday and adjourn in the following week until October.

The Dail has been working at high pressure for a considerable time, and the programme of legislation outlined by the President a couple of months ago will have been well advanced by the date of the recess. It may be remembered that the President submitted a list of 39 bills, which it was intended should be introduced and advanced as far as possible before the summer adjournment. Below is a list of the 39 measures, with an account of their precise stages to date:—

ARMED ROBBERIES IN CORK.

TRIALS IN DUBLIN.

At the Central Criminal Court, Dublin, yesterday, before Mr. Justice O'Shaughnessy, Daniel O'Neill pleaded guilty to having been in the unlawful possession of a revolver and assaulting Jane Humphreys, with intent to steal her goods on the 30th November, 1923, and on the 28th September of the same year with, having being armed with a revolver, assaulted Anna O'Sullivan, and stolen £3 8s. in money and £3 1s. 7d. in postage stamps, the property of the Postmaster-General.

Mr. Carrigan, K.C., and Mr. Dudley White, K.C. (instructed by the Chief State Solicitor) prosecuted.

Mr. Hungerford, who (instructed by Mr. W. F. O'Connor) appeared for the prisoner, said that O'Neill had served in the great war, and had been wounded and taken prisoner in 1917 and arrived in Cork as a stretcher case.

His Lordship said that the English judges were not now influenced by the fact that prisoners had served in the war which ended a good many years ago.

Mr. Hungerford said that he had been employed as temporary clerk by the Cork Corporation, and had very responsible duties to perform, £21,000 having passed through his hands while in that employment. In September, 1923, his wife gave birth to a child, and because there had not been as much as a cup of milk in the house he was urged on to commit this offence.

His Lordship—Robbery under arms is an appalling offence which has become very popular because there has been perfect immunity from punishment for it.

Mr. Carrigan, K.C., said that there was an organised party in Cork to rob the citizens, and the prisoner, despite his military record, had specialised in attacking defenceless women with revolvers. On the 28th September, 1923, he with another man, went into a post office in Cork, held up Mrs. Anna O'Sullivan and her two assistants, and robbed £7, the property of the Postmaster-General. In the following November he attacked Mrs. Jane Humphreys and attempted to rob her shop. There had been a fresh outbreak of crime in Cork, and this was the first of six similar cases to be tried from that city.

The prisoner was put back for sentence.

OTHER CORK CASES.

Daniel Duggan and Eugene O'Neill (Cork City) pleaded guilty to having on the 22nd December, 1923, being armed with revolvers, assaulted James Quigley and stole £21 from him. O'Neill also pleaded guilty to harbouring Duggan, and to a further charge of having assaulted and robbed Florence O'Brien of £100, the property of the Cork Gas Consumers Company, he pleaded not guilty.

Mr. McCarthy, who (instructed by Mr. O'Connor) appeared for Duggan, asked his lordship to take into consideration the fact that Duggan, who was employed as a shunter on the Great Southern and Western Railway, Cork, had suffered a severe injury to his brain prior to the commission of the offence.

The prisoner was put back.

The case against Eugene O'Neill for the robbery of £100 from the Cork Gas Company was then heard.

Evidence was given that a man of similar appearance to the prisoner accompanied by another man entered the pay office of the Company, held up Mr. O'Brien, the cashier, and took £100 which was in a box on the counter.

The jury found the prisoner guilty, and he was put back.

LASH FOR ARMED ROBBER.

Patrick O'Neill was indicted for having on May 10, 1924, while being armed with a revolver, stolen a motor lorry, the property of Denis Murphy. Evidence was given that at Murphy's garage, Bonham street, Dublin, the prisoner, with another man, produced a revolver, demanded and seized the car, and when asked for "some writing" replied, waving the gun, "This is the writing." A detective said that when charged and cautioned, the prisoner stated that he had been "sent by Captain Connolly, O.C. C Company, Harcourt street, to get a car to remove stuff to Rathfarnham," and that he had been drinking at the time.

The prisoner was found guilty. Mr. Carrigan, for the State, said that this armed robbery was only the beginning of it. The prisoner drove so recklessly as to knock down three women and cause the death of a child.

The Judge said the prisoner had already been convicted of robbery under arms. He now sentenced him to five years' imprisonment and to receive fifteen lashes.

NOT GUILTY.

Sidney Smith was indicted for having, while employed as manager of a restaurant in 34 Little Strand street, converted to his own use £40 received for, and on account of, his employer.

John Byrne said the prisoner had acted as manager of the restaurant while the witness was ill. He was in complete control, and the sum now in question had not been accounted for.

The prisoner said that he had never taken one penny belonging to Byrne, the proprietor of the restaurant without accounting for it.

The prisoner was found not guilty and discharged.

The Irish Times.

THURSDAY, JULY 24, 1924.

NEWS SUMMARY.

IRELAND.

The municipal authorities in Dublin and the townships have been notified by the municipal workers that a strike will take place on Saturday next because of a proposed reduction in wages. Over 1,500 men are involved in the City of Dublin, and the electricity supply and other services are threatened.—(Page 7.)

The members of the International Advertising Convention who have come to Ireland spent the forenoon yesterday visiting industrial concerns in Dublin, and in the afternoon were present at the Governor-General's garden party in the Viceregal Lodge.—(Page 8.)

In his address to the Kilmore Synod yesterday the Bishop said that, now that a moderate competence was assured to clergymen, young men should be encouraged to join the Ministry. He warmly approved the new Liquor Bill now before Parliament, and urged the need for public support.—(Page 8.)

GREAT BRITAIN.

Field-Marshal the Earl of Ypres presented to His Majesty at Buckingham Palace yesterday a copy of the edition de luxe of the Irish War Memorial, which is to be placed in the British Museum.—(Page 7.)

The Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, after hearing the arguments on the deadlock which has arisen in connection with the Boundary Commission, decided to report privately to the King.—(Page 7.)

The question of double taxation between Great Britain and the Irish Free State was raised in the House of Commons on the third reading of the Finance Bill last night, but it was stated that it would have to be dealt with on a Dominion basis.—(Page 7.)

SPORTING.

At the Curragh yesterday Amethystine won the Irish Oaks, Soldennis the Maryborough Plate, Lomond's Lake the Probationers' Stakes, Valtoi the Curragh Produce Stakes, Flying Spray the Rathbride Plate and Komorn the Dunmurry Plate.—(Page 10.)

At Liverpool yesterday Sunstone won the Molyneux Cup.—(Page 10.)

At Lanark Polemberg won the Lowther Handicap.—(Page 10.)

FINANCIAL.

London Stock Markets were quiet and irregular and without a single feature.—(Page 11.)

Money was again in short supply in Lombard street, and overnight loans ranged from 4 per cent. down to 2¾. Discount rates were steady. The foreign exchanges reacted.—(Page 11.)

In Dublin, South-Eastern Railway Ord. rose 2 to 18½. Guinness Shares were active and Marconis strong.—(Page 11.)

Taxation and Trade.

Sir Robert Horne's speech, in the House of Commons yesterday, ought to be read with the greatest care by every Irishman. The Free State Parliament has many excellent qualities, but it lacks economic education. The House of Commons, on the other hand, includes among its members some economists of an extremely high order, and Sir Robert Horne is one of them. His speech yesterday was concerned mainly with the financial policy of the Labour Government and the incidence of its very high taxation. He pointed out that Britain's position in the world to-day was due chiefly to her acknowledged pre-eminence in finance, and warned the Government that its present policy was likely to depreciate the nation's financial and economic stability. Heavy taxation, he argued, was the cause of most of Britain's ills. There was an outward show of wealth in the country, for the simple reason that people were spending money lavishly. High taxation discouraged thrift, and most people were living up to their incomes because they realised that saving in the circumstances was not worth while. Sir Robert Horne proceeded to show how Britain's oppressively high taxes and rates were creating unemployment throughout the country and preventing capital from the exercise of its normal functions. Trade and commerce, he said, were declining steadily. Britain's imports for the first five months of the present year showed a monthly increase of 20,000,000 tons over pre-war figures, while for the same period the monthly decrease in exports was no less than 75,000,000 tons. Every industry is bound to suffer. The iron and steel trade, according to Sir Robert Horne, is in a very bad way. Belgium and Germany are in a position to under-sell it by as much as 30s. and 40s. per ton, and in the shipbuilding industry Continental firms are quoting prices which are less than the minimum British prices by 20 per cent. This condition of affairs exists at a time when Germany has not yet begun to develop her export trade to anything like its former volume.

If Sir Robert Horne's remarks are true of Britain, a fortiori they are true of this country, and it behoves all our politicians to recognise the fact. Taxation all round is higher in the Free State than it is in any other country in the world; and to talk of the promotion of native industries in the circumstances is absurd. If the old-established industries of Britain cannot compete with their Continental rivals while income tax is four and sixpence in the pound, how on earth can new Irish industries be expected to survive the handicap of a tax of five shillings? In the last analysis our difficulties in the Free State, like those of the British people, are mainly financial and economic. Of course, they produce immediate political reactions, but political uneasiness soon would disappear if economic stability could be attained. At the present time the whole basis of our national existence is utterly uneconomic, and, therefore, insecure. The nation is living beyond its income and the individual is being forced to do likewise. Taxation sets the general standard. It regulates wages and thence costs. It determines the measure of comfort of the individual, which, in turn, governs his whole political outlook. The rate of taxation in the Free State is preposterous. It is true that some of it is a direct result of the campaign of destruction and terrorism which was waged against the Government; but, apart altogether from the costs which were incurred in that way, expenditure is still far too high. Labour is dissatisfied and the middle classes are almost at the limit of their patience. High taxes are the cause of it all, and we venture to say that the votes which are cast against the Government at by-elections are a sign of dissatisfaction with its financial policy rather than a proof of sympathy with the Republican doctrinaires. The Free State never will enjoy either economic prosperity or political quiet until its taxes have been reduced to a reasonable level. A continuation of the present policy would be disastrous.

The Modern Doctor.

Conferences of scientific men occupy themselves usually—and quite pardonably—with discussions of the triumphs of modern practice and research in their various spheres of work. Dr. J. Basil Hall struck a different note in his presidential address, on Tuesday, to the annual meeting of the British Medical Association. He warned the younger members of the profession that all advance was not progress, that the theories of to-day might be superseded to-morrow, and that the true test of medical efficiency was "that indefinable quality, character, and wisdom in the application of knowledge." Dr. Hall sees danger in the widespread desire to practise some form of specialism, which he attributes largely to the necessarily specialised work of doctors during the Great War. His address is, indeed, a plea for that beloved figure of Victorian art and fiction, the family doctor. Much knowledge of human nature and much experience over a wide field of observation go to the making of a first-class general practitioner. Dr. Hall insists that the failing in the younger generation of doctors is an over-confidence in modern technique. "Clinical observation threatened to become a lost art, and radiography and all the modern scientific methods were good servants, but bad masters." The doctors of thirty years ago were ignorant of whole regions of knowledge and achievement that are an open book to their successors, but those of them who loved their art acquired a sort of knowledge that is not to be learned from lecture or experiment. They knew not only the value, but the limitations, of the scientific methods of their time. The newest methods, too, have their limitations, but the zeal of specialism is less apt to recognise them. We think that educated people who are in any sense observers of life will feel that Dr. Hall's warning is sound.

Here, as in England, it is much to be desired that our young doctors shall develop their personal observation and experience, and shall not be content, as Dr. Hall says, "to invoke specialism to solve those problems which they ought to decide for themselves." The surest corrective of the narrowness and over-confidence which are the chief dangers of specialism is a liberal education in the arts. Since the doctor, of all men, ought to see life steadily and to see it whole, he ought to receive, in addition to his medical training, such a general education as will strengthen his intellectual faculties in every direction and will endow him with a well-balanced mind. We do not think that this necessity is recognised at all so fully to-day as in former years, when it was less urgent. It is no sentimental praise of the past to say that, on the average, the doctors whom our universities and medical schools produced fifty or thirty years ago were more highly educated men than those whom they produce now. We say "on the average" because, of course, the profession continues to be adorned with men of the finest culture, and many of these are eminent as specialists. Nevertheless, the standard of professional culture certainly was higher in the days—let us cite two honoured memories—of Sir John Banks and Sir Francis Cruise, than it is now, when a couple of years and an infinity of new subjects have been added to the curricula of the medical schools. To most medical students nowadays the Arts course is a necessary nuisance, to be fulfilled with the minimum of toil, and the universities have conspired to encourage this view. Whatever the cause may be—the decline of humane letters, the impatience of modern youth, or the stress of the struggle for bread—the result is to be regretted. To say that we have lost something is not to under-rate the triumphs of recent research or the unchanging devotion of our doctors to their noble task—yet the loss is there.

A Girdle of Empire.

Mr. Hartshorn, the British Postmaster-General, made an important statement in the House of Commons yesterday on the subject of an Empire service of wireless telegraphy. The Government has decided to adopt the two principal recommendations of the Donald Committee. Henceforth all the wireless stations in Great Britain that can be used for communication with other parts of the Empire will be owned by the State, through the Post Office, which will operate all such stations under an improved business organisation. The Government will co-operate with the Marconi Company in the establishment of short-wave directive stations for communication between Great Britain, the Dominions and India. An agreement will be submitted for the approval of the House of Commons by which the Marconi Company will be empowered to erect the first of these "beam" stations for communication with Canada. The station will be designed in such a way as to permit of extension to South Africa, India and Australia. Certain conditions are laid down, and, if they are fulfilled satisfactorily, the Government will pay for the erection of the necessary installations. The maximum price for the first station is fixed at £58,000, and, if additional units are required for the inclusion of Australia or South Africa, the maximum price of such additions is fixed at £36,000. The Postmaster-General told the House that a supplementary estimate would not be necessary. Another committee under the chairmanship of Sir Robert Donald is considering the improvement of business organisation for the working of stations in Great Britain.

Fascismo.

Signor Mussolini's report to the Grand Fascist Council, which is holding its July sessions, strikes a note of confidence and optimism. An anti-Fascist insurrection, the Prime Minister declared, was impossible, and no opposition, whether within or without the Parliament, could threaten the security of the party in power. The crisis which was caused by the Matteotti crime has passed safely, and the efficient organisation of Fascism has triumphed. It is gratifying to note that the Italian leader now warns his adherents that danger lies in violence and illegality. Signor Mussolini has good cause to look back upon the achievements of his party with satisfaction. The time when, in his own words, "Italy was spoken of as a little country in a state of disorder" has passed. She is now sufficiently united to be able to present a bold face in the councils of Europe and to make her influence respected among the nations of the world. Her future depends in no small measure on the attitude of the Fascists, who must not forget that autocracy and violence are sure barriers to national progress, and that circumstances cannot justify a perpetuation of unconstitutional methods. The Italian temperament is better suited to the methods of Fascism than is that of the less impressionable Northern nations. Political societies have found favour in Italy since the period when the Carbonari laid the foundations of the State as it is to-day. The strength of Fascism is shown by the fact that nine hundred thousand names stand on its rolls and that ten thousand new members were enlisted last week.

COURT AND PERSONAL.

To-day the last Royal garden party of the season will take place at Buckingham Palace, and the guests will include a number of overseas visitors who have recently arrived in London. Randal Plunkett, who will accompany them on their return to Dunsany Castle to-morrow.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

WIRELESS PLANS.

FINANCE BILL READ A THIRD TIME.

FROM OUR PARLIAMENTARY CORRESPONDENT.

WESTMINSTER, Wednesday.

In the House of Commons this afternoon the Postmaster-General announced that the Government had decided to adopt the main recommendations of the Donald Committee for the establishment of an Imperial wireless service. In the meantime the Marconi Company had put forward a proposal for the use of the short-wave directive stations, the so-called "beam" stations for communication between this country and the Dominions and India, and they had made definite arrangements for the erection of a beam station in Canada for communication with this country.

The Government was prepared to co-operate in the trial of this new system. The main recommendations of the Committee were that the State, through the Post Office, should own all wireless stations in Great Britain for communication with the overseas Dominions, Colonies, Protectorates and territories, and that the Post Office should operate, directly under an improved business organisation, all Empire stations in Great Britain.

* * * * *

The third reading of Mr. Philip Snowden's first Finance Bill was not a particularly inspiring business. The Chancellor himself was, for the earlier part of the proceedings, at any rate, absent from his place on the front Government bench, the conduct of the debate being left to Mr. William Graham, the Financial Secretary, who, disdaining to take a note of the various points raised, stored up in a very retentive mind the matters calling for a reply later on.

Mr. James Hope, who opened the discussion on behalf of the official Opposition, did not grudge the Chancellor any satisfaction he might derive from the anticipation of a substantial surplus on his Budget figures. He did wish, however, the Chancellor would tell them what were really his intentions in regard to finance. Was he counting on a large surplus which would enable him to present a popular Budget next year, or was he deliberately working for a deficit in order to introduce a new drastic plan of taxation? His own opinion of the Budget was summed up in a few sentences. It was dead against employment; it imperilled the Dominions market by abolishing the import duties. The Chancellor had sacrificed revenue and was getting nothing in return.

* * * * *

Mr. George Lambert indulged in a tirade against Protection in any shape or form. With regard to the foreshadowed plan for taxing land values, Mr. Lambert warned the Chancellor to keep his hand off agricultural land.

It was quite in the order of things that Sir Robert Horne, as an ex-Chancellor of the Exchequer, should have a few final words to say on Labour's first Budget. Whilst the Budget in itself could only be described as normal, the times were abnormal and people were being deceived by the outward appearance of spending and the display of wealth. The fact of the matter was that people were spending freely because they did not think it worth while to save. Indeed, why should they, when the State took so much of their money when they were alive, and still more when they were dead.

Mr. Graham dealt in detail with the various points raised, including the question of the double income tax and the Free State (reported in full on Page 7), and at eight o'clock the bill was given a third reading, and the House proceeded to the consideration of several private bills.

NEW LONDON PLAY.

"THE CREAKING CHAIR" AT THE COMEDY THEATRE.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

LONDON, Wednesday.

"The Creaking Chair," by Miss A. T. Wilkes and Mr. R. Pertwee, is one of the best detective plays I have seen. It has a real air of mystery, well sustained to the end, and a great deal of excellent Cockney humour. It is calculated to entertain all who like thrills and wholesome nonsense—and that was every member of the audience, judging from the hearty applause.

We were kept mystified and guessing all the time as to the identity of the murderer. A woman had been murdered and other disagreeable things had happened, the whole trouble centring round some valuable Egyptian scarabs taken from a tomb by an explorer—who ever after is doomed to spend his life in a wheeled chair. There was something very ominous about that explorer's creaking chair. One felt he knew a great deal more than he admitted about the curious things happening. That feeling, however, cropped up in regard to nearly all the characters in the play, and, needless to say, the guilty person was seemingly the most innocent.

Mr. Aubrey Smith played the man in the wheel-chair very cleverly, and Mr. Eric Maturin gave a really brilliant performance as a journalist. Miss Tallulah Bankhead, as the beautiful wronged wife, acted with just the right amount of emotion, and Miss Fabia Drake gave a really clever study of a highly strung, sensitive girl. The best piece of work was the Scots servant of Nigel Bruce: it was a finished and delightful study and added greatly to the enjoyment of the play.

THE POST OFFICE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—My letter in the Irish Times of the 18th inst. has had one very gratifying result. I received yesterday a visit from a courteous Post Office official, who came to ascertain the facts. He began with an expression of regret that I had not first approached the Post Office with my complaint. Ordinarily, of course, this would be the proper thing to do; but I pointed out to him that the facts on which my letter was based were of such a nature that the Post Office might regard an individual complaint of this kind as rather trivial. If it were a case of, say, frequent loss of valuable postal packages, it would be a case where one would notify the Post Office in the usual way, and one would expect the Post Office to act promptly and strongly. My visitor adduced such an instance; but my complaint had nothing to do with that class of loss.

From all sides I have been hearing that my experience is nothing uncommon—namely, that correspondence posted in Dublin very often fails to reach its destination. As I said in my former letter, "the thing is so common that it is a scandal." I feel that it is not so much a matter for a single complaint to the Post Office as for an appeal for the expression of public opinion. It is distinctly unsettling to feel that one cannot write a letter without the fear that it may never reach its destination.

The Post Office of the past has created a great tradition. Well-wishers of the Irish Free State do not want to see the high level go down.—Yours, etc., H. G. WARREN.

SIR JAMES CRAIG'S ILLNESS.

The following statement was issued at Belfast last night:—

Sir James Craig's condition shows a slight improvement.

LONDON LETTER.

THE JUDICIAL COMMITTEE.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
WEDNESDAY NIGHT.

The Judicial Committee of the Privy Council concluded its labours this morning after a sitting which lasted barely an hour. Before the proceedings started two appeals had to be heard, one from India, and thus the hour fixed for the Boundary reference was half-past eleven. At twenty minutes to twelve the public was admitted to the court. The gathering was even smaller than that of yesterday. A number of members of the United States Bar Association were present, including four ladies who in the United States are known as attorneys, a position similar to that of a barrister on this side. The members of the Committee were busy at first discussing some references, but after a few minutes they settled down and the pleadings were resumed.

Sir Douglas Hogg continued his arguments. The first point which he made was the suggestion that, since nobody else but the Government of Northern Ireland could appoint a representative to serve on the Boundary Commission for Northern Ireland, the simple way out was the constitutional one, and that was to pass an Act of Parliament. Lord Blanesburgh asked if the Free State would be bound by the result, and to that Sir Douglas Hogg replied that the Free State was in the position of a colony and would be bound by any Act of the Imperial Parliament. After this the Committee conferred for a little while, and then invited Sir Patrick Hastings to make a further statement if he so desired. Sir Patrick did advance several points, but in very brief form.

The End of the Session.

A further consultation followed, and then Lord Dunedin, suddenly rising to his feet, signified that the proceedings were at an end. He departed, however, from tradition; for he remarked that the proceedings were unlike those usual to the Committee, which, therefore, would not report in the usual manner, but on this occasion would regard its report to His Majesty as being of a confidential character. The Court rose at half-past twelve, and in a moment the room was empty.

A Confidential Decision.

The decision of the Committee that its advice shall be regarded as confidential means, of course, that it will not be published unless the Government so desire. It is understood that the Committee will consider its findings and will embody them in a document which will be submitted to the Lord Chancellor for presentation to and consideration by the King, who will then return the document to the Lord Chancellor for the direction of the Government. This will take some days, and, quite possibly, it may be weeks before the result of the Committee's labours becomes known.

An American Visitor.

At the Privy Council proceedings I sat next to a member of the United States Bar, who plied me freely with questions concerning the Court and its business. He was delighted when Sir Douglas Hogg, who was speaking, repeatedly quoted authorities concerned with North America. Once the name of Omaha came up, and my neighbour demanded to know why. I said that he would hear the counsel read a quotation from a law book concerning his reference. In a loud whisper he remarked that he could not understand what was being said; for he was not used to the Scottish accent. This was rather amusing, inasmuch as Sir Douglas is the husband of an American lady and himself a London man.

Curious Onlookers.

Leaving the Privy Council offices this morning, I found Downing street filled with a crowd watching the motor cars of the Allied delegates who at the moment were closeted with the Prime Minister. Every car carried a little silk flag bearing the arms of its owner's country, and round them stood a cosmopolitan gathering of police, journalists and people from all parts of Europe. Everybody seemed to be talking at once, and quite an air of excitement prevailed. I stood for a few minutes watching, when suddenly the door of the Prime Minister's house opened. In a moment there was complete silence, and every head turned round automatically to see if anybody was coming out. Nothing appeared, the door was closed again, and the babel was resumed.

The Allied Conference.

It was not surprising that there was so much animation outside the Prime Minister's house; for it had become apparent that the Conference proceedings had reached a crucial point. Immediately after the delegates had left the Prime Minister had a long consultation with Mr. Snowden, Mr Thomas and some of the Dominion representatives. I noticed that nearly all the delegates to the Conference seemed worn and tired this morning. Their appearance may have been due in some degree to the trying weather, but it looked more like fatigue.

London's Tolerance.

The great crowds filling the streets of London are proving attractive to people who fancy that they are suffering from injustice. Just outside the Houses of Parliament a man with a blue poster was pushing his way through the people this morning announcing that Vaquier was condemned, and that Lloyd George and Baldwin also would be condemned before long, while Ramsay Macdonald was given two minutes. Before it was possible to gather for what crime these politicians were to suffer the man had vanished. Outside the Law Courts a lady-like person, neatly dressed, had a poster on her shoulders bearing the words: "The truth about Lord Darling." The truth, whatever form it may have taken, was revealed in a circular which she was distributing broadcast.

The South Leeds Election.

Reports which have reached Westminster from the South-East Leeds Division indicate that there may be some difficulty in connection with the expected candidature of Sir H. H. Slesser when a by-election is occasioned by the resignation of Mr. O'Grady on his appointment to Moscow or to Tasmania. The trouble in the constituency is due to the opposition of a section of the Socialist Party on account of the Solicitor-General's previous rejection by a neighbouring constituency. The local Labour organisation would prefer to make an unfettered choice of a candidate instead of having a nominee sent down by the headquarters. The strength of this section is not at present known; but, in view of the keen desire of the Government to find a seat for Sir H. H. Slesser, efforts, doubtless, will be made to induce the local organisers to accept his nomination.

Earlier Holidays.

The propaganda waged by railway companies and certain municipal authorities of coast resorts in favour of earlier holidays has not been strikingly effective. Most of the principal seaside centres have been far from crowded during June and the earlier part of the present month, but visitors are now beginning to arrive in large numbers. This applies not only to the popular resorts on the South coast, but also to the holiday places in the North. The uncertainty of the weather in the earlier part of the summer may account for the disinclination to take an early vacation, but the custom which makes August the premier holiday month appears to be too deeply rooted to be easily disturbed.

TO REPORT PRIVATELY TO THE KING.

DECISION OF FIVE JUDGES ON BOUNDARY QUESTIONS.

A NEW ACT OF PARLIAMENT?

NORTHERN IRELAND'S ATTITUDE TO THE COMMISSION.

"As this is not an ordinary case of a judicial character, the advice which their Lordships will tender to His Majesty will be confidential, and it will be for the King to consider whether he will disclose the advice given."

LORD Dunedin made this statement yesterday at the close of the proceedings of the Judicial Committee, held in London, in connection with the difficulties which have arisen in the appointment of the Boundary Commission.

Sir Douglas Hogg, K.C. (on behalf of the Government of Northern Ireland), at the opening of yesterday's proceedings, said that there was nothing in the Statute to enable the King or anybody but the Government of Northern Ireland to make the appointment. Article 12 of the Treaty provided that the boundary should be determined by a Commission of three persons, and, therefore, until three had been appointed it could not act.

Regarding the question as to whether there is any constitutional way of bringing the Commission into existence. Sir Douglas said: "My answer is 'Yes.' There is a simple remedy, and that is to pass an Act of Parliament. Parliament is the body which established the scheme, and, if for any reason it was found impracticable to carry it out, Parliament is the only body which can remedy the difficulty."

Lord Blanesburgh asked would the Free State be bound by the result, and Sir Douglas Hogg replied that the Free State was in the position of a Colony, and would be bound by any Act of the Imperial Parliament.

During Sir Douglas Hogg's arguments on the supplemental questions, Lord Dunedin said that there was no authority for a casting vote unless provided for in the Act.

Sir Douglas declared that, as to the second part of the question, the authorities showed that the decision of the Commission must be unanimous.

Upon this point Lord Dunedin's comment was that the authorities showed that, where the matter was a private one, the decision must be unanimous, but where it was of a public character the will of the majority prevailed.

Sir Douglas Hogg urged, in conclusion, that the Court should be guided by what the parties had said in the Treaty, and not by what they intended to say. To this Lord Dunedin agreed.

THE CASE FOR THE NORTH.

The Judicial Committee of the Privy Council yesterday morning resumed in London the consideration of the Irish Boundary question which has been referred to them for advice owing to the refusal of the Government of Northern Ireland to appoint a Commissioner to represent them on the Commission which is to be set up to adjust the boundaries between the Irish Free State and Northern Ireland.

Sir Douglas Hogg, K.C., M.P., resumed his address on behalf of the Government of Northern Ireland. He said that the Attorney-General, on the previous day, had said that the Government of Northern Ireland was in no way defined. Sir Douglas quoted the British North-American Act, which dealt with the credits, debts, properties, and assets of Upper Canada and Lower Canada, and the matter was referred to the arbitrament of three arbitrators, one to be chosen by the Province of Ontario, and one by Quebec. A similar difficulty might have arisen in the case if Ontario or Quebec had refused to appoint an arbitrator, and there was nothing in the Act which would have enabled His Majesty the King to make such an appointment.

Sir Douglas then dealt with the first question referred to the Committee, and said that it must be answered in the negative. The question was, whether, in the absence of a Commissioner appointed by the Government of Northern Ireland, a Commission within the meaning of Article 12 of the Treaty will have been constituted, or can be competent to determine the boundary under that Article. The answer must be in the negative, for the obvious reason that the Article states that a Commission consisting of three persons, to be named, shall determine the boundaries of Northern Ireland, and the boundaries shall be such as may be determined by such Commission. If they had a Commission which did not consist of three persons, and which had no representative appointed by Northern Ireland—that is not the Commission to whom authority is given by Article 12 to determine the boundary. A Commission consisting of three persons was the only body that had any authority to do anything of the kind.

SIR HENRY SLESSER, K.C. (the Solicitor-General).
MR. MACMILLAN, K.C. (Lord Advocate).
MR. GIVEEN.

MR. J. C. DAVIDSON.

THE APPOINTMENT OF AN ARBITRATOR.

The Attorney-General had referred to the best authority on the question in the case that he had quoted on the previous day, in which there were three arbitrators to be appointed by each of the parties. If one of the parties refused to appoint an arbitrator there was no power to supplement the Arbitration Board. An action might be brought for breach of contract, but there was no power to substitute another arbitrator. There was no power to remedy the defect by appointing an arbitrator in the absence of the party who had neglected or refused to make the appointment. In certain cases where the arbitrator refuses to act or the arbitrators cannot agree, there is express power given to arbitrators under the Act of 1889 to remedy this particular defect in the arbitration. Apart from this case, there were earlier cases, which showed clearly that where there was a reference to three persons these three persons must act together in order to constitute a valid award.

Where three persons are represented as a judicial body the parties to the matter have the right to the united judgment of the three up to the last moment. If any one of the three was absent, any award that was made would be bad. Sir Douglas quoted a decision by Lord Chief Justice Coleridge in support of his contention.

"The fact that there may conceivably be a vacancy or absence," said Sir Douglas, "of one of the parties is sometimes present to the mind of Parliament, for I find in the Irish Free State Consequential Provisions Act of 1922 that there is a provision in Section 3 of the Act for the establishment and provision of cottages for ex-Service men. The body appointed in the cases is to consist of five members, three to be appointed by the Secretary of State and one by the Prime Minister of Northern Ireland. It is laid down that the terms of office of member, or members, shall be such as may be determined by the authority by whom he is appointed, but the members may act notwithstanding any vacancy in their numbers. If there had been a provision of this kind in the present case the whole position would have been completely altered."

Sir Douglas said that it could not be legally argued that a Commission consisting of three persons could consist of two persons, and a decision by a Commission of two persons could not be a decision by a Commission of three. A Commission of three persons was the only body that could determine the boundaries of Northern Ireland. With regard to the next two questions, he had already submitted his contention that the term "Government of Northern Ireland" meant the Cabinet or Ministry of Northern Ireland, and nothing else. Neither the Governor of Northern Ireland nor anyone else had any authority to appoint this Commissioner. "It might be suggested that the Crown might have the prerogative right to delineate the boundaries, but," said Sir Douglas, "where statutory provision is made for doing a particular thing the prerogative right for doing the same thing has gone."

Dealing with the authority and powers of a Governor, Sir Douglas cited a Colonial case in which an alien sued the Governor of a Colony for damages because he was prohibited from landing in the colony. The case went to the Privy Council, and the decision of the Court below was reversed. He need hardly further elaborate the argument that the Governor of Northern Ireland was not the person designated to appoint the member of the Commission. The Attorney-General had made a reference to the Colonial Boundaries Act. He did not know if the Attorney-General suggested that that Act could be made applicable in the present case. The short answer to the suggested applicability of this Act to the present case was that this was not a question of a Colonial boundary, but of the United Kingdom. It had been recognised that Northern Ireland was still part of the United Kingdom; consequently, the Colonial Boundaries Act was not applicable. In this case the Legislature itself had enacted what was to be Northern Ireland, and it was included in the United Kingdom.

THE FIVE QUESTIONS.

1—Whether, in the absence of a Commissioner appointed by Northern Ireland, the Commission, as at present appointed, is duly constituted within the meaning of Article 12 of the Treaty, and is competent to determine the Boundary question?

2—If not, is it competent for the Crown to instruct the Governor of Northern Ireland to make the appointment, and for the Governor to act upon that instruction?

3—Failing that, is it competent for the Crown to appoint the Commissioner?

4—In the event of the answer to all these questions being in the negative, is there any constitutional method of bringing the Commission into existence?

5—(a) If the Commission is constituted of two persons, and a disagreement occurs, will the Chairman have a casting vote?

(b) If the Commission consists of three persons, will the vote of the majority prevail?

ANOTHER ACT OF PARLIAMENT.

He came now to the fourth question, whether there was any constitutional means of overcoming the difficulty that had arisen? Sir Douglas Hogg said that there was a very simple constitutional means of bringing the Commission into existence, and that was by an Act of Parliament. Parliament had given statutory effect to the Treaty, and if it turned out to be impracticable to carry out its provisions, Parliament was the only body which could remedy the mistake.

Lord Blanesburg—Would such a statutory mandate bind the Irish Free State?

Sir Douglas said that the Imperial Government was supreme. In the event of such a mandate the Irish Free State would be in the same position as Canada.

Lord Dunedin said that they could not recognise anything there other than an Act of Parliament.

Sir Douglas went on to say that Parliament is the only means by which the difficulty could be overcome. He then referred to the question put forward by Sir Patrick Hastings as to whether if a Commission was appointed and a disagreement occurred, the Chairman would have the casting vote, and whether the vote of the majority would prevail. He said that he did not intend to take up much of their time in answering such an argument, for it was his submission that the Commission was a nonentity, and did not exist. He quoted a case heard in the King's Bench in which the validity of a Chairman's casting vote was considered under the Municipal Corporation Act.

A MAJORITY VOTE.

He went on to say that the other question—of a majority vote prevailing in the case of a disagreement—was of some importance, and they had some little authority on this subject. His submission was that the members of the Commission had to be absolutely unanimous.

Lord Dunedin said that he thought that where the arbitrators were deliberating on a private question the vote must be unanimous, but in the case of an inquiry which affected the public the proceedings were governed by the vote of the majority. He proceeded to quote from a judgment in which Chief Justice Ayres laid down that where the proceedings were affecting the public the vote of the majority must be the vote of the whole. Mr. Justice Buller in the same case expressed the opinion that under such circumstances (a secret hearing affected the public) the voice of the majority should govern the proceedings.

Lord Dunedin mentioned the case of Omaha v. Omaha Water Company, heard by the Supreme Court, in which it was laid down that in the case of private deliberations the members of the inquiry must be unanimous, but that in cases which concerned the public the rule was otherwise.

Sir Douglas Hogg said that there were three or four Colonial cases in which it was laid down that unanimity must govern private proceedings. He went on to say that in all Boundary Commissions there was express provision with regard to a majority vote. Sir Douglas again repeated his previous submission that the real solution of the matter lay in an Act of Parliament.

Sir Douglas then referred to the statement made by Sir Patrick Hastings that the Imperial Government viewed the position with grave concern. It was his contention that all questions of political concerns should be rigidly eradicated from the hearings.

Lord Dunedin said there was no question of that.

Sir Patrick Hastings said that he did not want to take up any more of their time, but he wished to mention a judgment under the British North America Act which dealt with the question of the Chairman giving a casting vote. In this judgment it was laid down that in a case where one of three parties retired immediately upon appointment to a Commission a valid judgment could be given by the remaining two.

The hearing then concluded, and Lord Dunedin told the parties that owing to the nature of the proceedings they would convey what advice they could to His Majesty confidentially.

STRIKE THREAT IN DUBLIN.

1,500 MUNICIPAL WORKERS INVOLVED.

A SERIOUS OUTLOOK.

The Dublin municipal authorities and the councils in the townships have received strike notices on behalf of municipal workers, to take effect from next Saturday afternoon. The notices have been given in consequence of an alleged decision of the authorities to make a "cut" of 6s. per week in wages. A letter, dated 21st inst., has been received by the Clerk to the Pembroke Council, from the Irish Municipal Employés' Trade Union, giving notice that all labour shall be withdrawn from the councils and boards represented at a recent joint conference.

One of the Dublin Commissioners stated to Press representatives yesterday that no resolution of any of the councils concerned, demanding a reduction of wages, had been passed. The Commissioners, he explained, sent representatives to a conference of the bodies mentioned, and the conference decided to recommend the councils of which it was composed to reduce the men's wages by 6s. per week, spread over a certain period. None of the bodies or administrations concerned have yet had an opportunity of even considering the question of adopting the recommendation.

The wages paid by the Corporation were a minimum for labourers of 64s. a week, rising to 69s. after ten years' service, with bank, municipal and annual holidays, clothes, boots, and full pay during the first four weeks of illness. Pensions were also given after 20 years' service. Those emoluments were calculated to be equal to 20 per cent. in addition to wages. Carters of ten years' service were paid 75s. a week, with similar emoluments, equal to 15s. per week additional, or 90s. in all, and with an absolute guarantee of continuous work.

In other words, the Commissioner said, they have a higher rate than any ordinary skilled tradesman in the city receives. The wages paid to labourers in the Corporation represents a percentage over pre-war figures of 190 per cent., while the ascertained cost of living figure was only 90 per cent. in excess of pre-war. As instancing the rates paid by other bodies in the city, he mentioned that the wages paid by the Port and Docks Board to unskilled labourers was 55s. a week. Should the strike take place on Saturday, the number of employés of the Corporation affected, he added, would be approximately 1,500.

It would also involve a stoppage of the electricity supply for lighting and power, and the stoppage of all municipal work, such as cleansing, scavenging and street sweeping. In view of the large number of visitors expected to Dublin for the Tailteann Games, the outlook is exceptionally serious, and no suggestion to refer the matter to arbitration has so far been put forward.

The men's Union claim to have funds amounting to over £10,000, which would finance a strike for at least a month.

HOUSE-BURNING CAMPAIGN.

£36,000 AWARDED TO MR. BAGWELL.

The malicious burning of the splendid mansion of Senator John Bagwell on Marlfield demesne, near Clonmel, was described at the Clonmel Compensation Court yesterday, before Judge Sealy, K.C., when a claim was heard for £56,000 compensation.

Mr. Swayne, K.C. (instructed by Messrs. Gordon and Son, Dublin), for the claimant, said that Mr. Bagwell was well known in the county, and was the general manager of the Great Northern Railway. His family had resided at Marlfield since 1780, when the house was built, and were never absentees. The place was kept in the best possible condition. Mr. Bagwell was attached to it, and intended to rebuild it. Counsel did not know what Mr. Bagwell's politics were, but at all events when the Free State was set up he was asked by the Executive authorities to become a member of the Senate. He accepted the post and agreed to do his best to assist in the economic development of the country. Some individuals at the time thought that nobody should be a Senator, and a campaign was started to burn down Senators' houses, not because of any personal ill-feeling against them, but because they were Senators. In January, 1923, thirty armed men, who said that they came there to burn the place because Mr. Bagwell was a Senator, arrived at Marlfield and destroyed the mansion. In it were some priceless books and pictures which had been collected for generations; also a collection of old Irish silver, the like of which it would be almost impossible to get now.

His Honour said that it was a terrible thing to think of such valuables being destroyed.

Mr. Swayne said that all the valuable pictures had been destroyed except two, which they were able to save. As regards the library, it was the workshop of Mr. Bagwell's father, the late Mr. R. Bagwell. Here he did his literary work, compiling his works, which included his histories of the Tudor and Stuart periods. It was a library which Trinity College or the National University would have been glad to get as a presentation, as it contained a number of very ancient editions of works.

Senator Bagwell, in his evidence, said that his family were for five generations in residence in Marlfield, without an absentee.

After hearing evidence of the burning of the mansion, and of value, His Honour awarded £36,489. He was glad to hear that Mr. Bagwell was going to rebuild his house.

FASCISM STANDS FIRM.

SIGNOR MUSSOLINI'S REPORT.

ROME, Wednesday.

The opening of the July Sessions of the Grand Fascist Council took place yesterday evening. Signor Mussolini, in the course of his report on the political situation, stated that with regard to the opposition neither their Parliamentary nor non-Parliamentary adversaries had any power to overthrow the Government. An anti-Fascist insurrection was impossible.

Referring to the question of the National Militia, the Premier said that he had never contemplated the absolute fusion of the Militia with the Army proper. The question was to find duties for the Militia that the Army, by its nature, could not carry out. The Militia ought not to lose its special character, but should always remain the faithful guardian of the Fascist revolution, and a source of faith and enthusiasm in the future of the country symbolised in the person of the King.

The Fascist Party, though constantly harassed, had shown a marvellous resistance, in view of certain defections which had taken place, and the seceding elements had been replaced with better material. The Government had modified its composition without altering its essential features, and would ever remain Fascist in principle.

The Matteotti crime had produced a profound upheaval, but the investigation of the crime had resulted in a revulsion in favour of Fascism which, by its strong and complete organisation, showed that it was still powerful and unconquerable.—(Reuter.)

DOUBLE TAXATION.

MUST BE KEPT ON A DOMINION BASIS.

BIG COMPANY'S VIEW.

HOTEL BILLS PAID WITH DIVIDEND WARRANTS.

Southern Ireland must be treated in connection with income tax on a Dominion basis, said Mr. Graham, the Financial Secretary to the British Treasury, in replying to criticisms on double income tax which were raised during the debate on the third reading of the Finance Bill in the House of Commons yesterday.

The remedies that had been suggested by the members would not meet the case. The Royal Commission of 1919 was very definite on the point that there could be no mingling of funds, and that the fullest autonomy as between any part of the world enjoying Dominion status and Great Britain must be maintained.

He was hopeful that administrative devices would overcome the difficulty. He was very anxious to arrive at an arrangement, because there was hardship up to a point.

On the general question he undertook to keep in consultation with hon. members in order to see whether they could remove the difficulty. He was very hopeful that in due course some sort of international agreement would be arrived at as regarded double taxation. His hopes depended on reciprocity.

M.P.S' CRITICISMS.

DIFFICULTIES OF OBTAINING REFUNDS.

Lieutenant-Colonel Howard-Bury, who introduced the subject of double taxation as it affected income tax and super-tax in its relation to the Irish Free State, Northern Ireland and Great Britain, said that the present position was that income tax was deducted by both countries, with the result that people found themselves deducted of 9s. 6d. in the £, and then they had to recover this amount from the Irish Treasury and the English Treasury.

Recovery was comparatively simple from the English Treasury, but in many cases where application was made to the Irish Treasury in April, 1923, the rebate was still due to them. That was unfair, and he was not altogether certain that the legal position was quite tenable, by which more than the amount due could be taken by Governments from an individual.

In this case they were taking 9s. 6d. from the individual and forcing him to reclaim the 4s. 6d. from the two Governments. He had received a letter from the chairman of a large Irish company, with a capital of roughly £1,500,000 Ordinary Stock and £500,000 Debenture Stock, and most of the shareholders were English people resident in England.

The letter proceeded:—"We have some thousands of shareholders, many of them being men who have not large holdings, the inference being that their money has been invested for them in the past as affording a secure income. You are, no doubt, aware what the practice is as regards dividends and interest paid by my company. We are compelled to deduct the higher rate of tax—namely, 5s. in the £, at the source, and at the English bank a further 4s. 6d. was deducted when the dividend was paid, making 9s. 6d. altogether.

"I am sure you will realise what a great hardship it is to the class of shareholders mentioned, to have practically half their gross income taken from them, especially as the proceedure as regards recovering is very intricate. I know of many instances where the tax deducted from dividends paid in April, 1923, have not yet been refunded.

"I have interviewed the Irish Commissioners and they appear to be quite amenable to reason. They give me to understand that the obstacle in arriving at an arrangement lies with the English Treasury. The suggestion I have made to the Commissioners is that, when we send out dividend warrants we should deduct the 5s. at the source, and out of the 5s. hand the respective proportion of 2s. 9d. to the Irish Free State and 2s. 3d. to the English Government. That is manifestly the simple way to deal with it, and it would then be a question afterwards between the stockholders and each of the Governments concerned.

"If the English Treasury can only be made to realise the facts. They are standing in their own light by not adopting some such arrangement as I have outlined. I find that many of our stockholders open an Irish banking account, into which they pay their dividend warrants, which means that in those cases the Irish Government gets the whole of the 5s. and the English Government loses its proportion, and there is no liability on the taxholder, for he has suffered the deduction of 5s. and there is no claim beyond it. Other stockholders send cheques across to Ireland in payment of accounts, and, I was informed by one of the managers of a large Irish hotel, that the dividend warrants of this company were commonly offered in payment of an hotel bill.

"We are so sick of the worry and bother that this double taxation question has caused that when we send our next dividends to our English stockholders I have decided to send the money over to an English paying agent, who will issue a plain cheque, which will not bear any indication that it is a dividend warrant, so that when the stockholder pays the said warrant into his bank in England he will not suffer the penalty of a further 4s. 6d., as at present, but the voucher certifying the deduction of the 5s. tax will be a separate slip."

Colonel Howard Bury suggested that the larger of the two amounts should only be paid once, or that all income derived from Ireland from Irish securities or from Irish land should be entitled only to the Irish Free State tax, and all investments in English companies should be liable only to English income tax. That could be arranged between the Irish Free State and the English Treasury.

Mr. D. D. Reid said that he wished to support what had been said by Colonel Howard Bury. In the case of the people for whom he spoke the greater part of the investments were made before the Irish Free State was set up, and the result had been to place them in a very much worse position than they were in before the investments were made. Not only had they the inconvenience of having a very large proportion of their income deducted owing to the 5s. tax in the Free State and the 4s. 6d. in this country, but they had seen considerable capital depreciation.

When the British Government first began to deduct the 4s. 6d. he had been told the Great Northern Railway Company of Ireland Ordinary Stock fell about eight points.

Some people were inclined to talk of Northern Ireland as if they were not very friendly towards the Free State, but they wished to see the Free State prosper. Southern Ireland had always been hampered in its development for want of capital, and the result of the present arrangement was to discourage money being invested in Southern Ireland.

He could corroborate what had been said about the loss of revenue to the British Treasury, and he knew himself case after case of people who, after having the 4s. 6d. deducted, had not taken any more dividend warrants to their bankers.

He asked the Financial Secretary to the Treasury to approach this question with an open mind, because it seemed to him that it ought to be possible to come to some arrangement between the two Treasuries by which the proper amounts due to each could be obtained without putting so heavy a burden on the taxpayer.

For instance, in the case of the Great Northern of Ireland Railway Company, which operates both in Northern Ireland and the Free State, the two Governments might have some stake-holder who would hand over to each the sums due. To take practically half a person's income in order that the 2s. 9d. due to the Free State, with their 5s. tax, and the 2s. 3d. due to the British Government, with their 4s. 6d. tax, should be obtained, was rather like burning down your house to roast the pig.

BRAZIL REVOLT.

SAO PAULO UNDER SHELL FIRE.

REPORTED REFUSAL OF AN ARMISTICE.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

NEW YORK, Wednesday.

Buenos Aires telegrams received to-day report further heavy fighting at Sao Paulo. The town, it is stated, is being bombarded by Federal troops, and shells are falling on the most thickly populated districts.

Since July 11 the population has been in a state of panic, and hundreds of families have fled.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

MONTE VIDEO, Wednesday.

The captain of the Greek steamer Andrios on his arrival here reported that he was unable to finish the unloading of the vessel at Santon owing to the bombardment of the Dreadnought Minas Geraes by rebel aviators. The Andrios was obliged to leave the port owing to the danger of bombs hitting the ship.

NEW YORK, Wednesday.

According to intelligence from Santos, the revolutionists have made efforts to enter into negotiations with the Government for an armistice, and that President Bernardes has informed them that they must face the penalties of the Brazilian laws.

The President of the Sao Paulo Foreign Chamber of Commerce acted as intermediary for the rebels, who demanded that, in addition to an armistice, the Government should guarantee that there should be no reprisals.

The Government's reply was to renew the vigour of its action, and its forces are now stated to be gaining an advantageous position round the city.

American observers at Sao Paulo say that the rebels are showing signs of nervousness owing to the failure of the armistice negotiations.

ARMY ESTIMATES.

"KENMARE INCIDENT."

The main business in Dail Eireann yesterday was the discussion of a vote of £2,770,747.

Mr. Thomas Johnson, moving a reduction of £1,000, called attention to what the committee that inquired into the administration of the Army described as "the Kenmare incident." He read a report in the newspaper Eire which alleged that the two daughters of a medical practitioner in Kenmare were dragged from their beds by four officers, taken into the garden in their night attire and beaten with belts. Cart-grease, it was stated, was smeared on their hair.

President Cosgrave said that the case had been investigated and all the evidence and documents had been submitted to the Attorney-General. The Executive Council followed the Attorney-General's advice in the matter. There was no prosecution.

The motion to reduce the estimate was defeated.

General Mulcahy said that the "dry" and "wet" canteens in some military barracks were in the same apartment. He suggested that where the accommodation was limited there should be no "wet" canteen. President Cosgrave said that he would consider the matter.

Mr. W. Davin alleged that certain officers had taken furniture and silver from the officers' mess to their own homes, and that one officer who interfered with the removal of furniture at the Curragh was "put in the clink."

President Cosgrave said that he would like to get details of these cases of alleged theft, and he would give an undertaking that persons giving evidence would receive adequate protection.

KILLESTER LIGHTING.

RURAL COUNCIL DISCUSSION.

Letters from the Local Government Department and the Sailors' and Soldiers' Department in regard to the lighting of Killester roads was read at a meeting of the North Dublin Rural District Council yesterday.

Mr. Baggot said that he did not object to having the roads lighted if the residents in the district which required it paid the bill. It would be grossly unfair to ask the ratepayers living in other districts to pay. As a matter of fact, they had objected to pay for lighting from which they derived no benefit. He understood that £300 had been provided in the estimates for the lighting.

Mr. Walsh—These people want everything for nothing. They already got their rents reduced.

Mr. Baggot—If they are satisfied to pay for it they can have the light. How could I ask my constituents at Cabra to pay for lighting at Killester? You have already received protests against it.

It was agreed to forward all the correspondence on the subject to the Minister for Local Government.

ASSURANCE DEAL.

IRISH LIFE COMPANY SECURES A CONTROLLING INTEREST.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

LONDON, Wednesday.

It was officially announced to-night that a provisional agreement has been entered into, by which the Irish Life and General Assurance Company, secures a controlling interest in the Hearts of Oak Assurance Co., Ltd. This agreement has now been approved by the Industrial Assurance Commissioner.

The Hearts of Oak Assurance Company has authorised share capital of one million, of which £60,744 has been subscribed and fully paid up.

Under the agreement the Irish Life Assurance Company is to invest £20,000 in shares of the Hearts of Oak Assurance Company, which will secure a controlling interest.

It might be stated that the Hearts of Oak Assurance Company has been in existence about 20 years, and has an annual premium income exceeding £200,000, with well-invested assets exceeding £100,000. It has a very wide charter under which it can transact all classes of assurance business, but its main branches are industrial and ordinary life assurances, fire insurance, and workmen's compensation, with a number of subsidiary branches.

At the last valuation there was shown a substantial actuarial deficiency, and the agreement provides for the adjustment of policy contracts, so as to make the company solvent, and the share capital noted above is to be written down by £30,000.

Certain ex-officials of the Hearts of Oak Assurance Company have been opposing the directors in their preparation for consumating the agreement in question, and convened an extraordinary meeting of shareholders to consider the subject. This was held last Tuesday afternoon at the Memorial Hall, London, when a large number of shareholders attended. After a long discussion the action of the directors was approved by an overwhelming majority on a show of hands, while the directors also held proxies to the number of 61,000 as against 17,000 held by their opponents.

The directors of the Irish Life Assurance Company are Mr. Joseph Devlin, Chairman; Mr. John D. Nugent, Professor Henry J. Maloney, and Messrs. James J. Bergin, and James A. Nugent.

TO-DAY'S LONDON PAPERS.

MUSSOLINI'S POSITION.

The Times in a leading article says:—Believers in constitutional principles can hardly be expected to approve of the speech which Signor Mussolini made yesterday, but they may at least welcome its generally unaggressive tone. From the day when he seized upon power at the head of his "Black Shirts," Signor Mussolini has paraded, by word and by act, his utter contempt for representative Government. He held up to the Chamber its corruption and its turpitudes with withering invective, and, if he was more courteous in phrase to the Senate, he has bowed it not less imperiously to his will.

But Mussolini appears to be sincerely anxious, if not for such a restoration to normal conditions as the Opposition desire, at least for the sort of one which he describes, and which means, roughly, reasonably good administration and the punishment of crime, even of Fascista. If he can carry the bulk of the party with him, it will be backed up by the thirty-nine millions of Italians, who, he admits, are still outside its ranks. Everything, in the long run, must depend upon them; the "force" of one million cannot continuously dominate the wishes of thirty-nine. The National Militia are to be preserved, perhaps, because it would be dangerous to disband them, but a "second tidal wave" is declared to be unnecessary, and all violence and illegal action are deprecated as "extremely harmful."

The speech contains many highly disputable assertions and a great many promises. It will be easier to judge of the first when we have the full text, and of the second this day six months—or thereabouts.

THE HOUSING BILL.

UNIONISTS TO VOTE AGAINST IT.

The Times says:—The Housing Group of the Unionist Party discussed the position of the Housing (Financial Provisions) Bill yesterday, and it was agreed that, though the measure had been improved somewhat by the alterations which had been made and promised, it still could not be regarded as satisfactory. It was, therefore, decided to vote against the third reading when it is taken to-morrow, and the task of moving and seconding the motion for the rejection will be entrusted to Sir Kingsley Wood and Mr. Samuel Roberts, both of whom have worked very hard on the Committee stage.

As the Liberals will support the third reading, it is certain to be carried, and it is expected that the bill will be taken to the House of Lords on Monday.

INTERESTING DISCOVERY AT JERUSALEM.

POSSIBLE SITE OF THE GARDEN TOMB.

The Times of to-day publishes an account, written by the Rev. C. C. Dobson, Vicar of St Peter's, Paddington, of an interesting discovery which has been made near the entrance to the garden tomb outside the Damascus Gate of Jerusalem. Some loose stones were being removed from the ground in front of the entrance of the tomb in the process of tidying up the garden, when one of them attracted the attention of Miss Hussey, who is in charge of the tomb, owing to the fact that it had markings upon it. She had it removed, partially cleaned it, and reported the find to the Government Department of Antiquities. A few days after its discovery it was viewed by Professor Brandenburg, who was commissioned by the Berlin Society of Palentinian Research to investigate the rock tombs of Palestine a year ago, and whose reputation as an authority on rock architecture in the Mediterranean is admittedly high. He immediately, and without hesitation, identified it as "a shrine of the goddess Cybele or Aphrodite (Venus), with the column and tree of Adonis or Attys beside it," declared that such shrines were found in temples of Venus.

The importance of this discovery lies not so much in itself as in its association with the garden tomb. This tomb is regarded by many as, perhaps, the very tomb of the Resurrection. It is a well known fact of history that in the year A.D. 135, when, on the suppression of the revolt of the self-styled Messiah Barchocheba, the second and more complete Roman destruction of Jerusalem took place, the Emperor Hadrian built a new Roman city named Aelia Capitolina on the ruins, and among other things erected a temple of Venus over the tomb of the Resurrection, with the purpose of completely desecrating it. Outside the garden tomb are the distinct traces of a large building.

MILLIONAIRES' SONS ON TRIAL.

THE MURDER OF A SCHOOLBOY.

CHICAGO, July 23.

When the notorious case in which the two youths, Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb, are accused of the murder of a schoolboy named Franks opened to-day, in stifling summer weather, the courtroom was filled with curious crowds. Chief Justice Caverley was on the bench. Promptly at 10 o'clock the millionaires' sons were ushered into court. Leopold appeared to be unconcerned, but Loeb was pale, and wore a startled expression.

The Chief Justice opened the proceedings by summoning the defendants to the Bar, where he again explained to them in long, legal phraseology the consequences of their plea of "guilty." The two boys listened intently. The court then proceeded with the murder indictment, temporarily postponing the second charge of kidnapping.

Mr. Crowe opened the case for the State. Counsel described how the crime had been planned and schemed months ahead, the defendants even going so far as to experiment with throwing a compact bundle of newspapers from a moving train, in order to learn where it would land, so that they might later be able to instruct the father of their victim how to throw ransom money to them. The boys, whom the Attorney styled as cold, calculating murderers, discussed together the feasibility of kidnapping different boys, and finally they picked on Bobby Franks, with whom Loeb was in the habit of playing tennis in the latter's garden. Having described the murder and the disposal of the body in a culvert, Counsel shouted: "In the name of the people of Illinois and the parenthood and childhood of the State, we demand the death penalty for both these cold-blooded, vicious murderers."

Talking to reporters outside the court, Nathan Leopold expressed concern at the manner in which the newspapers would describe his clothing. Both boys smoked constantly in feverish puffs, showing the strain under which they were labouring.

IRELAND'S WAR RECORD.

PRESENTATION TO THE KING.

"AN EXCELLENT THOUGHT."

EARL OF YPRES VISITS THE PALACE.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

LONDON, Wednesday.

Field-Marshal the Earl of Ypres waited on the King at Buckingham Palace at eleven o'clock this morning for the purpose of presenting to His Majesty, for the trustees of the British Museum, the edition de luxe of Ireland's memorial record from 1914 to 1918.

Lord Ypres was to have been accompanied to the Palace by Mr. Serjeant Hanna, but the Serjeant was, unfortunately, obliged to return to Ireland last night, and consequently Lord Ypres went alone. The edition de luxe contains eight volumes, but it was considered unnecessary to take the whole set to the Palace for the King's inspection, and Lord Ypres took with him the first volume only.

His Majesty, who was unattended, received the Field-Marshal in his private reception room, and gave the handsome volume a most thorough inspection, expressing his appreciation of the beautiful workmanship lavished upon it.

He was greatly interested in all that Lord Ypres told him concerning the record, and remarked that he thought the idea of such a record a very good one, and that the expenditure of the interest on the War Memorial money on such a magnificent production was an excellent thought.

The King then accepted the work for the British Museum, where the eight volumes will be taken almost at once, and will be preserved for all time as a complete record of the Irishmen who fell in the war.

The record books are carried out according to designs by Mr. Harry Clarke, and are beautifully decorated. One hundred sets of eight volumes have been distributed to libraries and other public institutions throughout the Empire, and the books will constitute a lasting acknowledgment of the debt which Irishmen of all classes and creeds owe to the 49,000 men whose names are enshrined in them.

The utmost care has been taken by the War Memorial Committee to make the record as complete as possible. A very great measure of success has been achieved, and the books, as a memorial, are unique. The cost of preparing the books was defrayed out of the interest on the invested sum of nearly £42,000 which was collected for the Irish National War Memorial. This amount is still intact.

[Reproductions of the cover of the Seventh Volume and the title page of Volume One will be found on Page 9.]

FREE STATE PASSPORTS.

PROPER CONTROL OF ALIENS: COMMONS QUESTIONS.

The question of Free State passports from America was raised in the House of Commons yesterday.

Colonel Gretton asked if the British Ambassador at Washington was advised or consulted by the Irish Free State envoy as to passports for travellers from the United States of America to the Irish Free State.

Mr. Ponsonby said that the question of passports had not yet arisen. His Majesty's Ambassador at Washington was not immediately concerned in the control over the issue of visas, but there was no reason to doubt that the Irish Free State passport control officer would loyally co-operate with his British colleague to ensure proper control over aliens proceeding to an Irish destination.

Colonel Gretton—Am I to understand that a control officer will be stationed at Washington and will be in consultation with the British Ambassador before passports are issued?

Mr. Ponsonby—I think that is so, but I cannot give a definite reply.

Colonel Gretton—Is not this a matter of great importance? And if there is not proper regulation and control, are not the whole of the passport regulations in this country to be set at defiance and made of no use as regards aliens entering the Irish Free State?

Mr. Ponsonby—Yes; it is of great importance, but I think the control is quite effective.

Lieutenant-Colonel Howard-Bury—In view of the jealousy with which the Irish Free State Government looks upon any interference, how is it possible to bring any pressure to bear with regard to visas?

Mr. Becker—The hon. gentleman said that the question of passports did not arise. Can he state what the situation is with regard to passports in the Irish Free State?

Mr. Ponsonby—My reply only dealt with the question of visas and not of passports.

OVERWORKED CITY JURORS.

POSSIBILITY OF RELIEF.

At the sitting of the Central Criminal Court, before Mr. Justice O'Shaughnessy, yesterday, Mr. Carrigan, K.C., said that they had made such considerable progress in the disposal of the cases with which they were faced that the jurors might look forward to being relieved at an earlier date than they had at first anticipated. They had disposed of all the "venue cases."

The judge said that he was glad to know that, but it must be made clear that they must dispose of all the custody cases by way of the jail delivery.

Mr. Carrigan said that he should add that a considerable number of cases had come, and were coming, in, but the virtual disposal of the custody cases and all the Cork cases was an important advance in their work.

The judge remarked that there had already been a great strain on the jurors.

Mr. Carrigan said that under the new bill a certain amount of relief would be afforded to the jurors and, he believed, an extension of the area concerned.

The judge said that he would have liked to have granted an exemption for a period to jurors whose service had involved exceptional work, but he had no power, such as they had in England.

A FAMOUS RACING YACHT.

SHAMROCK IV. TO BE BROKEN UP.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

NEW YORK, Wednesday.

The hull of the racing sloop, "Shamrock IV." with which Sir Thomas Lipton made his fourth unsuccessful attempt to capture the Cup in 1920, has been sold to be broken up for anything of value that there may be in the hull. It is said that the green sloop, which cost Sir Thomas a fortune to build and race, was sold for a fraction of her cost. "Shamrock IV." was purchased by a junk-dealer, who bought the challenger in order to secure the sixty-five tons of lead and other metal in the hull, and it is reported that the purchase price was under £3,000.

The Cup challenger is now at the Jacob yard, City Island, where she has been laid up since the Cup races of July, 1920, in which "Shamrock IV." was defeated by the Herreshoff sloop, "Resolute." Following the last Cup contests, both Shamrocks were laid up at the Jacob yard.

Early this year the 23-metre Shamrock boat was fitted for sea and taken back to England, carrying some of the spars and the racing sails and gear of the Cup challenger. "Shamrock IV." a lightly-built racing hull, began to disintegrate badly, and Sir Thomas Lipton decided to sell her for what she would bring, and now rumours are floating across the water to the effect that the Irish yachtsman is thinking about making a fifth attempt to lift the elusive Cup.

CRUELTY TO HORSES.

CIRCUS ACROBAT FINED.

James Brent was fined 10s. and costs at Londonderry yesterday for cruelty to two horses. A policeman said that the defendant was employed in Fawcett's Circus, which had visited Londonderry the previous day. That morning the police found him driving two horses in a wagon. Each of the animals had a sore, from which blood and matter were oozing, and no attempt had been made to chamber the collar. The horses were without shoes on the hind legs.

The defendant said that he was an acrobat in the circus and had nothing to do with the horses. The company was short of drivers, and he consented to drive them "as an obligement." He did not know that the animals were in that state. There was a groom, and it was his business to look after the horses.

The police said that the horses had been put in a yard in the city, and would be kept there until better at a cost of 8s. a day. In this connection proceedings could be taken summarily against the owner for the recovery of the amount as a civil debt.

LADY URSULA GROSVENOR.

PICTURESQUE LONDON WEDDING

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

LONDON, Wednesday.

There were remarkable scenes to-day at the wedding of Lady Ursula Grosvenor, elder daughter of the Duke of Westminster, to Mr. William Filmer Sankey, of the 1st Life Guards, son of the late Commander Filmer Sankey. The marriage took place at St. Mary's Church, Cadogan Gardens, where a company of Horse Guards lined the aisle.

Constance Duchess of Westminster was dressed in brown lace, with a green hat, and among others present were:—Lord Beauchamp, Elizabeth, Marchioness of Ormonde, Princess Pless, Lady Farnham, Lord and Lady Birkenhead, General and Mrs. Seely, Lord Pembroke, Lady Shaftesbury, Lord Tweedmouth, Lady Beatrice Pole-Carew, Sir John and Lady Lavery, Lady Arthur Grosvenor, Lord Balfour, Lady Desborough, Lady Grey of Fallodon, and the Marchioness of Cholmondeley.

When the invitations were sent out the bride's humbler friends were not overlooked, and so it happened that at St. Mary's Church this afternoon celebrities were fellow-guests with humble workmen—employés on the Duke's estates in Scotland and Cheshire, servants from the ducal mansions in London and from Eaton Hall. Perhaps the proudest man there was Mr O'Brien, who had deserted his crossing-sweeper's beat in Upper Grosvenor street in response to a silver and white invitation requesting him to be present at the church and afterwards at Grosvenor House.

The ceremony was a simple one, as the bride has not changed her religion, but the church had been beautifully decorated with red roses, the bride's favourite flower. Her wedding gown was of a pale biscuit georgette, with long sleeves to the wrist; the skirt was handsomely embroidered in gold and pearls and golden bugles. Her antique lace veil was worn like a cap around her head, and caught on each side with orange blossoms. She was wearing magnificent pearls. Her bridesmaids were dressed in lavender blue georgette and wore wreaths of red roses. The bridal train was of golden tissue, bordered with beautiful embroidery and lined with white.

There were four bridesmaids—the bride's sister (Lady Mary Grosvenor), Lady Mary Ashley Cooper (daughter of Lord and Lady Shaftesbury), her cousins, Miss Isolde and Miss Barbara Grosvenor, and two trainbearers, Helen and Brien Cotton.

The ceremony was performed by Father Longinotto, of Windsor, where the bridegroom is stationed.

At the reception at Grosvenor House, the bride's mother, Constance Duchess of Westminster, now Mrs. Lewis, assisted the Duke in receiving the guests.

TWO TEACHERS SHOT DEAD.

LONDON STREET TRAGEDY.

A double tragedy occurred at Rotherhithe, in the South-East district of London, yesterday afternoon, when two school teachers, William Holmes, a widower, of New Cross, and George Kay, married, of Catford, both between thirty and forty years of age, and attached to the staff of the Redriff road, London County Council School, were shot dead soon after leaving school for the summer holidays. The men, who were apparently on intimate terms, had been in the habit of leaving school together.

The point at which the tragedy occurred was an isolated spot in Redriff road, with timber yards on one side and quays on the other. There were very few people about at the time, but there was a little group of boys who sauntered along in the wake of the two teachers. One boy said that when the two teachers reached an iron bridge Mr. Holmes seemed to break away and attempt to leap over the bridge into the river. He was pulled back by Mr. Kay after a short struggle. Apparently there was an earnest discussion, but Mr. Holmes appeared to calm down, and they walked together for some distance. Then, according to the boy's statement, Holmes suddenly whipped out a revolver, and fired two shots at Kay. He then turned the weapon on himself. Both fell to the ground, and when assistance arrived it was discovered they were dead.

THE OLYMPIC GAMES.

NEW YORK, Wednesday.

The discussion which has been going on in the London Press advising the suppression of the Olympic Games has aroused much interest here. The World, in an editorial article, says:—"The only answer to the attitude of the crowd at Colombes is continued participation with unaltered equanimity." The Times says:—"The revival of the Olympic Games was so nobly inspired that it would be purely lamentable if they had to be given up. No necessity for doing so is to be found in a few squabbles."

CYCLING.

PARIS, Wednesday.

Blanchevet (France) to-day won the 188 Kilometres Road Cycle Race in 6 hours 20 minutes 40 seconds. There were 72 competitors.

France secured first place in the team racing, Great Britain being seventh.

WEIGHT-LIFTING.

PARIS, July 23.

In the Weight-Lifting contest the middle-weights results were as follow:—Galimberti (Italy), 1; Neuland (Esthonia), 2. The British competitors, Attenborough, Austin, and Lowes, were 17th, 22nd, and 23rd, respectively, out of 25 competitors. The Egyptian, Samy, did remarkably well. He was classed fourth, and beat the world's record for spreading with both hands.

ADVERTISING MEN'S VISIT.

SIGHTSEEING IN DUBLIN.

GARDEN PARTY AT THE VICEREGAL LODGE.

The members of the International Advertising Convention who are at present visiting Dublin had a full day's programme yesterday, and there is no doubt that they enjoyed themselves thoroughly. The delegation comprised not only advertising agents, but business men in a large way in trade. There were delegates from Sweden and Denmark and from the United States, and they were all delighted with their experience in Ireland. Their visit to Killarney on Tuesday will remain with them as a cherished memory.

Yesterday morning the delegates visited Messrs. Jacob's Biscuit Factory, where they were received by the heads of the firm, by whom they were shown all over this great concern. The visitors were much impressed by the magnificent organisation of the establishment, and gave it as their opinion that it was no wonder that the firm had gained a world-wide reputation.

From Jacob's factory the visitors went to Guinness's Brewery, and here they were received with marked hospitality. Having been shown all over the extensive concern, the visitors were especially struck by the cleanliness and order of the huge establishment, the products of which are known almost all over the world.

Sir Thomas Robinson, Chairman of the Publicity Club of Ireland, who are the hosts of the delegates, expressed the thanks of the visitors to the firm of Guinness for their generous treatment of them, and for the kindly manner in which they had been received.

Mr. Homer Buckley, of Chicago, on behalf of the delegates, expressed appreciation of the hospitality with which they had been received in Ireland, and he especially thanked the Publicity Club of Ireland for having arranged so satisfactorily for their entertainment. To the firm of Guinness and Co. they were deeply indebted for the pleasure which they had derived from the inspection of their magnificent establishment, and for their splendid hospitality.

Mr. Gage S. Green, Secretary to Messrs. Guinness and Co., said that it was a great pleasure to the firm to see so many English people and foreigners generally taking an interest in the concern. It was interesting to him and many others to find that there were present many ladies and gentlemen from the great country at the other side of the Atlantic, whose people no longer took any interest in the brewing business. (Laughter and cries of "Question.") He hoped, however, that they would carry away with them pleasant recollections of their visit to Dublin, and that they would return at some future time. (Applause.)

From Guinness's the party proceeded to the headquarters of the Civic Guard in the Phœnix Park, where they witnessed an exhibition in physical drill by a body of recruits, and also a boxing competition.

Mr. O'Higgins, Minister of Justice, on behalf of the Executive Council of the Free State, bade the visitors a hearty welcome. He said that the members of the Government felt proud of the police force, and that they felt confident that they would secure the peace, prosperity, and stability of the country. He hoped that representatives of foreign countries such as those present would pay many visits to Ireland.

THE GARDEN PARTY.

In the afternoon the Governor-General entertained a large company at a garden party in the Viceregal Lodge grounds, which are now looking very charming, but, unfortunately, the weatheh was unpropitious and somewhat detracted from the pleasure of the alfresco fête. Sumptuous refreshments were served in a marquee, which afforded shelter for a large number when the showers became heavy. No. 1 Army Band performed a fine programme of music under the direction of Colonel Fritz Brase, and several of the Irish items were greatly appreciated by the American visitors. Amongst those present were:—Mr. and Mrs. Denis Barrett, Senator and Mrs. Barrington, Senator and Mrs. Barniville, Mr. and Miss Beamish, Sir Edward, Lady and Miss Bellingham; Senator and Mrs. Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. Bohane, Senator S. L. Brown, Senator and Mrs. Butler, Lord Castlerosse, Major Bryan Cooper, Mrs. Costello (Senator), Senator and Mrs. Counihan, Sir James and Lady Craig, Major-General Felix Cronin (Q.M.G.), Major-General J. E. Dalton, Colonel Cahir Davitt, Senator Dowager Countess of Desart, Sir Maurice and Lady Dockrell, Senator and Mrs. James Douglas, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. M. Eason, Senator Sir Thomas Esmonde, Senator and Mrs. Fitzgerald, Mr. Desmond Fitzgerald, Lord and Lady Glenavy, Senator and Mrs. Oliver St. John Gogarty, Mr. John Good, Mrs. Good and Miss Good, Senator Mrs. Stopford Green, Mr. and Mrs. Grehan, Senator Henry S. Guinness, Mr. Hogan (Minister for Agriculture), Senator and Mrs. Jackson, Senator and Mrs. Linehan, Senator James McKean, Senator and Mrs. John McLoughlin, the Right Hon. James, Mrs. and Miss McMahon; Dr. MacNeill (Minister for Education), Sir Simon and Lady Maddock, Senator James and Miss Moran, General and Mrs. Mulcahy, Dr. Lombard Murphy, Mrs. Michael Murphy and friend, Major-General and Mrs. Murphy, Senator and Mrs. Nesbitt, Mr. and Mrs. Kevin O'Higgins and Miss Cole, Colonel and Mrs. O'Higgins, Sir James and Lady Percy, Senator Mrs. Wyse Power, Sir Thomas and Lady Robinson, Mr. Commissioner and Mrs. Shiel, Senator Sigerson, Professor and Mrs. Thrift, Senator and Mrs. Yeats.

DELEGATES IN BELFAST.

AN INTERESTING DAY.

The delegates of the Advertising Clubs of the World, who are at present the guests of the Advertising Club of Ulster, spent a most enjoyable afternoon on Tuesday at the Giant's Causeway, Portrush. Yesterday the visitors were received by the Lord Mayor of Belfast in the City Hall, and accorded an official welcome to Belfast and Northern Ireland. Subsequently parties visited the York Street Flax Spinning Company's mills and factories, Messrs. Harland and Wolff's shipyard, and the Belfast Ropeworks.

In the afternoon the visitors were entertained at a garden party at Stormont Castle, the residence of Sir James and Lady Craig. There was an interesting ceremony when Lady Craig presented to Mr. Cecil J. Sibbett a certificate admitting him to honorary membership of the Advertising Club of Ulster. This certificate was presented to Mr. Sibbett by the Advertising Club by virtue of the many services that has rendered to the advertising profession, and also because he founded the first advertising agency in South Africa.

Mr. Sibbett, who is President of the Publicity Club of South Africa, is an Ulsterman who has made a name for himself in South Africa. He resigned his seat in the Cape Provincial Assembly to visit London during the International Advertising Convention.

SAVINGS CERTIFICATES.

During the next few weeks about £500,000 will be disbursed by way of dividends from a number of Irish and other companies.

The Central Savings Committee point out that recipients will do well to consider the claims of the Irish Free State Savings Certificate, a State-guaranteed security, procurable at all banks and money order post offices. The yield of 5½ per cent. compound interest is very profitable, indeed, when it is remembered that this interest is absolutely exempt from income tax. The money invested can always be withdrawn, together with any interest due. The maximum number of Savings Certificates (purchase price 15s. 6d. each) which any individual may hold in his own right is limited to 500, but all members of a family may possess them up to that limit. Investments in Savings Certificates are not affected by a rise in the Bank rate.

The Central Savings Committee, 63 Dawson street, Dublin, has prepared very interesting pamphlets giving full particulars of this security, and these may be had free on application.

BANK OF IRELAND CLERKSHIPS.

Candidates should note that at the last examination 26 of the 35 appointments offered (including the first 7 places) were gained by pupils of ROSSE COLLEGE, Stephen's Green.—(Advt.)

NOTABLE BELFAST WILL.

GRANTS TO DUBLIN INSTITUTIONS.

Wheeler—the sum of £100,000, to be devoted by them to such charitable purposes (in the wide legal sense of the term) in Ireland as they might in their absolute discretion decide upon. In addition to the £60,000 to Queen's University already reported in the Irish Times, the following allocations have been made:—

ALLIED CONFERENCE.

NEGOTIATIONS WITH THE BANKERS.

FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

LONDON, Wednesday.

To-day's sitting of the London Conference lasted barely an hour and a half. The extent of the progress made towards a settlement may be gauged from the fact that the two main difficulties—the attitude of the bankers and the railway problem were not directly discussed at all.

Concerning the first of these matters, however, there are important developments to record. Mr. Charles E. Hughes, the American State Secretary, was, I understand, consulted by M. Clemenel, the French Finance Minister, last Tuesday, and to-day he had an interview with M. Herriot. He had also had an exchange of views with Mr. Ramsay Macdonald.

Mr. Andrew Mellon, Secretary of the United States Treasury, who is here on what is described as a private visit, had breakfast with the Premier at 10 Downing street, and was afterwards present when Mr. Macdonald had a discussion with Sir Montagu Norman (Governor of the Bank of England), Mr. Thomas Lamont (of Messrs. J. P. Morgan and Co.), and Sir Robert Kindersley.

The outcome of these talks is so far satisfactory—the negotiations with the bankers are to be continued by the First Committee of the Conference. The report of that Committee—to the latter portion of which the bankers took exception—was not presented to-day, and I learn that the two formulas, which have been put forward in the hope of solving the difficulty, are now to be considered so that the report will probably be remodelled.

M. Theunis's proposals put into formal shape by representatives of the British and French Foreign Offices, as modified to meet French objections, proposes that the Reparations Commission before declaring a German default, should consult, apparently in addition to the Agent-General for payments, and the bondholders, and five members of the Committee of Experts—one English, one French, one American, one Belgian, and one Italian.

Mr. Macdonald made a statement at the opening of to-day's sitting explaining that a special plan, "not to be regarded or quoted as a precedent," had been adopted in regard to the representation of the British Dominions and India at this Conference, which was of an "exceptional character." Representatives of the Dominions so desiring and of India were to become members of the British Empire Delegation on the panel system, and Mr. Belcourt was present that day as representing Canada. The other representatives would take their turn to sit as members of the British Empire Delegation, and would be able to attend the meetings of the Conference even when it was not their turn to sit in that manner.

Prior to the Conference there had been a meeting of the full Empire Delegation, attended also by Sir J. Cook (Australia), Sir James Allen (New Zealand), Sir Edgar Walton (South Africa), and Mr. Dadiba Dalal (India). There had also been the usual meeting of the chief delegates.

M. Herriot is credibly reported to have described his experiences during the past week as his "Calvary." He certainly looked very worn and worried when he arrived at the Foreign Office this afternoon.

I am able, however, to deny the report that he is returning to Paris at the week-end to consult his Cabinet, and I regard his presence at a supper party in Fleet street's famous Cheshire Cheese to-night as a sign that he is not downhearted.

OBITUARY.

COLONEL L. C. SPRAGUE.

The death is announced of Lieut.-Colonel Louis Charles Sprague, of Gloucester terrace, London, for many years a well-known officer of the Royal Irish Rifles. The sad event took place on 18th inst. at Millbank Military Hospital, as the result of septic poisoning. The deceased officer joined the Royal Irish Rifles as second-lieutenant in 1895; was promoted lieutenant in 1897, and obtained his captaincy in 1902. He served with both the 1st and 2nd battalions, and for a period was adjutant of the depot in Belfast; also he was at one time deputy assistant adjutant and quarter-master general at Aden. Colonel Sprague, who served with the Rifles in the Great War, married a daughter of the late Mr. John Ross, linen manufacturer, Lurgan, and was a brother-in-law of the late Captain Ross of the Belfast Steamship Company.

MR. JOHN ORMSBY COOKE.

Mr. John Ormsby Cooke, of Kilturra, Bunninadden, whose death took place at Bray on Monday, was formerly a Deputy Lieutenant and Justice of Peace for the County of Sligo.

MR. T. E. FITZPATRICK.

His many friends in Dublin learnt with regret yesterday of the death of Mr. T. E. Fitzpatrick, 227 Clonliffe road. Mr. T. E. Fitzpatrick was the son of the late Mr. T. E. Fitzpatrick, sen., who was attached to the Irish Times for many years, and was himself engaged in Press work for a long time, during which he was a frequent contributor to the Dublin newspapers. The funeral takes place this morning, after the celebration of a Requiem Mass, at 9 o'clock at St. Francis Xavier's Church, Gardiner street.

The annual loss caused to Australian productivity by rabbits is estimated at over £20,000,000.

A charabanc collided with a lorry near Canterbury yesterday afternoon, and five passengers, all London people, were injured.

ENTERTAINMENT TAX CASE.—In the Dublin Police Court yesterday, Mr. L. Nolan, proprietor of the Corinthian Picture House, Eden quay, was summoned for having on June 14 and 16 last admitted, for payment to an entertainment members of the audience without having the tickets stamped with the entertainment duty stamp. Two officials of the Revenue Department gave evidence that they purchased tickets which were not stamped, although the amount of the tax was charged. It was pleaded that Mr. Nolan was in the habit of supplying stamped tickets to the box office, and he could not offer any explanation as to how the unstamped tickets came to be issued. The magistrate said that he regarded this as a very serious case, and he had no alternative but to convict. He would not, as it was the first prosecution of the kind against Mr. Nolan, impose the maximum penalty of £50 on each summons, but would mitigate it to £12 10s. in each case.

OLD AGE PENSION FRAUD.—Maryanne Somerville, 5 Lower Clanbrassil street, was prosecuted in the Police Court yesterday for drawing an old age pension to which she was not entitled, as she was employed at the Technical Schools, Kevin street, at the time and was receiving 26s. a week. The magistrate said that he regarded the case as a very serious one, and imposed a sentence of fourteen days' imprisonment, but subsequently he said that, owing to the woman's age, he would not send her to prison, but would fine her £5.

MILK CASES.—In the Dublin Police Court yesterday, Patrick Connell, 146 Parnell street, was fined £5 for selling milk from which 20 per cent. of its fats had been abstracted, and John E. Dennis, Ballygall House, Glasnevin, for selling milk deficient of 11.7 per cent. of its fats was fined £3.

UNION FINANCE.—It was reported at yesterday's meeting of the Dublin Union Commissioners that the Dublin County Council had lodged £5,000 to the credit of the Union, bringing the credit balance up to £10,991 6s. 8d. The Council still owed £21,111 15s., and the Dublin Corporation £29,900.

ST. VINCENT'S MALE ORPHANAGE, GLASNEVIN.—The monthly statement of this special work of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul mentions that the receipts were £296 15s. 2d. and the payments £375 6s. 5d., the actual cost of maintenance having been £315 11s. 8d. Four boys left, 145 remained in the Orphanage, and two applications were successful.

CITIZENS' ASSOCIATION.—The Executive Committee of the Dublin Citizens' Association has drawn the attention of the Chief Commissioner of the Dublin Metropolitan Police to the necessity for taking steps to regulate in a more efficient manner than prevails at present the pedestrian traffic of the city. The advisability of stamping cheques with one penny has been brought to the notice of the Postmaster-General.

LEINSTER.

LOSS CAUSED BY CUSTOMS BARRIER.—Attention was drawn at a meeting of the Dundalk Chamber of Commerce yesterday to the loss and inconvenience suffered by Dundalk merchants through the border regulations. It was pointed out that much trade in South Armagh was being lost to the town by the closing of certain routes to Crossmaglen and Forkhill. Goods for Crossmaglen, formerly sent direct via Culloville, have now to be sent to Newtownhamilton, and goods for Forkhill must go for inspection to Silverbridge. It was also complained that a report was abroad that the contract for the supply of certain foodstuffs to a Free State barracks had been given to a Northern firm.

TULLAMORE SHOW POSTPONED.—King's County Farming and Industrial Society announces the postponement of the Agricultural Show, which it had been arranged should be held in Tullamore next Monday, to a date to be announced. The postponement is due to the action of men on strike against a reduction of wages enforced by shopkeepers. The shop assistants called out the men who were preparing the Show grounds.

WEATHER VAGARIES.—Sports were held in Clara (King's County) under pleasant weather conditions, but a meeting on the same day at Castletown, six miles away, had to be abandoned owing to a continuous downpour of rain.

PUBLIC TELEPHONE WANTED.—A memorial has been forwarded to the Postmaster-General by the shopkeepers of Thomastown, requesting him to have a public telephone installed in the town.

UNION AMALGAMATION "HUMBUG."—Clonakilty Urban Council has struck a poor rate of 6s. 6d. and a town rate of 5s. Last year's figures were 6s. and 6s. When the Clerk said that the increase in the poor rate was due to the County Home scheme, a member remarked: "We understood that that was going to be a great boon to the country. It is the greatest humbug ever imposed on a country."

CORK SHOW RECEIPTS DOWN.—The receipts at the recent agricultural show in Cork were less than those of last year. It was mentioned at the meeting of the Munster Agricultural Society that the gate receipts at the 1923 show in Cork were £1,098, and this year £1,061. The reduction was due to the inclemency of the weather.

S.S. CLASSIC TO BE RENAMED.—An application has been made to the Department of Trade and Shipping of the Ministry of Industry and Commerce by the City of Cork Steam Packet Company to have the name of the steamer Classic changed to Killarney, in accordance with the provisions of the Merchant Shipping Act of 1894. The company acquired the Classic from the Belfast Steam Ship Co., Ltd., for the cross-Channel service from Cork.

PENSIONS ADMINISTRATION CRITICISED.—At a meeting of the Donegal County Council a letter was read from the Local Government Board relating to the resolution adopted by the County Council regarding the administration of the Old Age Pensions Acts, and stating that, while the Ministry shared with the County Council the desire that all legally qualified persons should enjoy pensions under the Acts, it must be pointed out that the onus of proof lies on the individual applicant. A member said that proof, even by affidavits, was submitted, but the pensions officers ignored it. It was also said that there were people of 75 and 80 years who could not get the pension. The Council decided to reply that it was not satisfied with the Ministry's answer.

THE SEARCH FOR WORK.—Twenty-seven men applied to the Donegal County Council for work as engine drivers, and a hundred applied for flagmen's posts. There were five vacancies in each case.

"HANDY WOMEN" IN DONEGAL.—Following complaints made to the Donegal Board of Health that "handy women" are operating in several districts, the Board decided to request the County Council to take action in the matter. At its meeting yesterday the County Council decided to put the Midwives (Ireland) Act, 1918, into force.

DONEGAL SECRETARY'S PENSION.—Donegal County Council, by fourteen votes to three, decided to adhere to its original resolution granting Mr. Bernard McFadden, formerly its secretary, a pension of £900 a year. The Ministry of Local Government had written stating that £800 would be an equitable award.

A pike weighing twenty-five pounds has been caught in Pallas Lake, King's County.

A racing pigeon, with three rings bearing the numbers 1966, N.U.R.P. 240 and 5906, and other marks, arrived exhausted at "Iveragh," Shelbourne road, Ballsbridge, last Monday. The pigeon can be had on application to Mr. H. Wallace.

A verdict of accidental death was returned at an inquest at Castlederg into the death of Hugh Porter, aged 16, Carndreen, who was suffocated by a mare which fell on him into a ditch.

Charles Byrne, who was remanded in the Dublin Police Court on Tuesday on a charge of the illegal possession of a bicycle, was discharged yesterday. The magistrate said that there was no evidence on which the case could be sent forward.

NORTHERN IRELAND.

"SOLDIER'S SONG" IN NEWRY.—At Newry Petty Sessions yesterday, thirteen men from Castlewellan and Annsboro', County Down, were prosecuted for being members of a riotous and disorderly crowd at Newry on Sunday, July 6. Police evidence was that the defendants were members of an excursion party that was returning from Warrenpoint, via Newry, on a motor coach. In Hill street they sang "The Soldier's Song." Solicitor for the defence—"That is a most loyal song in the Free State; it is the official song." The motor coach stopped on Trevor Hill; a large crowd collected. But for the presence of the police something might have occurred that would not have been very desirable. The Bench ordered the defendants to enter into personal bails of £5 each to keep the peace for six months or, in default, a month's imprisonment.

DISFIGURING ORANGE ARCH.—At Newry Petty Sessions yesterday, James McConnell, an ex-naval man, of Cloughreagh, was fined 20s. and costs for being drunk and disorderly at Cloughreagh on the night of July 11. A policeman said that the defendant was cutting the decorations from an Orange arch. It was pleaded that the defendant was inebriated and did not know what he was doing; but the Chairman of the Bench said that he ought to have had a naval man's sense of discipline.

LAND VALUES IN LURGAN.—A farm of seven acres, five of which are held in fee simple, at Annaloist, near Lurgan, has been sold by auction for £455. Two farms, containing 20 acres 1 rood 20 perches, with substantial dwelling-house, in Derrycorr, four miles from Lurgan, were sold for £570. Three roods of moss or turbary in Derrytagh South, held in fee simple, were sold for £90.

DERRY DENTAL CLINIC.—It was reported to a meeting of the Londonderry Infirmary Board that if a dental clinic was established when the extension was made to the infirmary many of the dentists in the city would be willing to give their services.

UNEMPLOYMENT AND CRIME.—The High Sheriff of Belfast, speaking at a luncheon yesterday to the judges at the opening of the City Commission, said that he thought that many of the cases to be dealt with at the Commission were the result of continued unemployment. They humbly suggested to the Northern Government (who had done good work), to every public body, and to every good citizen, that they should put forth double efforts to stimulate trade revival, which could be the only real remedy for unemployment.

STARVING ISLANDERS.

TEACHER'S REPORT READ IN THE DAIL.

Deputies in the Dail last Tuesday evening were impressed when Mr. T. J. Murphy, a Labour representative from Co. Cork, read a letter describing the sufferings of the children of the fisherfolk of Hare Island, off the south-west coast.

The letter, of which the Irish Times gave a summary yesterday morning, was written to the Deputy by Mr. James McCarthy, teacher of the island school. In it he says:—

"The area of the Island is about five hundred acres, with about one-third arable land, the remainder is a mass of bare rocks. There are forty-two families on the Island, with only three slate houses, the remainder are miserable hovels, with (on an average) five or six living in each.

"As can be seen from the above, the farms are small, only a few acres in each. At present there are sixteen families without a cow, and several with only one (and that a very poor one), so that for the greater part of the year the vast majority are unable to get milk; they are unable to buy substitutes (the chief articles of diet being bread, black tea, and potatoes), with the result that from want of proper nourishment there are four children suffering from bone disease at present in Skibbereen Hospital.

"The chief industry of the islanders was lobstering, and the condition of this was given, I think, on last week's Star, where it was stated that a cutter called to Schull Harbour for a cargo of lobsters, and had to depart again, as none were to be had.

"I spent nearly five years teaching in North Staffordshire, and came in contact with many children from the slums, but their sufferings were nothing in comparison with those of the children in Hare Island. The latter are compelled to pick winkles, the season for which is October to June. One can imagine children, boys and girls from eight years upwards, standing in the mud for a period of four hours, knee deep, and even deeper, on a frosty morning picking winkles for a mere trifle. I have had several instances of children trying to escape this punishment by stealing away to school, often without any breakfast, and their mothers following them requesting me to send them home, as they were unable to obtain the price of the next morning's threakfast without their help at the winkle-picking."

KILMORE SYNOD.

THE MINISTRY'S NEEDS.

TEMPERANCE WORK.

Addressing the Kilmore Synod yesterday, the Bishop of Kilmore said that he spoke at the last Synod of the lack of young men who offered themselves for the ministry, not alone in their Church, but also in the Church of England and other religious communities.

Each year they were feeling this more and more as older men died or were superannuated. It had become more difficult to obtain curates, and parishes remained vacant for months before they could be filled. It was chiefly this which influenced the General Synod to adopt such a drastic measure as the Minimum Stipend Act. Now that a moderate competence was assured to their future clergy, he trusted that parents and clergy would seek to influence suitable boys to enter the ministry, as the matter was most urgent.

The Bishop also referred to another great difficulty which faced their Church, which was that of obtaining a sufficient number of teachers in their schools in Southern Ireland. Their schools, for the most part, were small, and the need was for female teachers. The supply of male teachers was fairly satisfactory. The Principal of the Church of Ireland Training College had informed him that he knew of no less than seven schools in which teachers were required, and for which it was impossible to get them.

LIQUOR LEGISLATION.

REMOVING TEMPTATION.

Reference was made to the temperance question, which had been brought prominently before the public in their country by recent legislation in Northern Ireland, and by a bill which had been introduced into the Dail.

As he said when addressing the Elphin Synod, he thought that they owed a deep debt of gratitude to the Irish Times for its articles, by which it endeavoured to stir up public opinion in favour of the bill. They should not fail to support their legislators in their efforts to lessen temptation to excessive drinking, and to let them know that they had the backing of a large number of people.

In his (the Bishop's) opinion the bill was a very moderate one. The section which sought to isolate the licensed part of premises—a section to which a great deal of exception was taken—was recommended by a Royal Commission many years ago. It would be a great pity if it were allowed to drop.

Not only would that section of the bill lessen the temptation to drink, but it would be of great assistance to the Civic Guards in enforcing the Licensing Laws.

He quite agreed with those who thought that some temperance advocates said things which ere not quite justifiable. Such statements did a great deal of harm to the movement. The help of all right-minded people, whether themselves, total abstainers or not, was needed.

Turning to the report of the Board of Missions, the Bishop recalled that in his address to Ardagh Synod, he spoke about the relation of the white to the coloured races, and endorsed the opinion that nothing but a wider diffusion of the spirit of Christ throughout the world could prevent a terrible colour war in a generation or two.

There ere some among them, said the Bishop, in conclusion, who were inclined to take a very pessimistic view of the future of the Church, and the way that it had diminished in the South and West gave considerable reason for their view, but such a view showed scant of faith in God. He had brought their little Church through many difficulties and dangers during the 1,500 years that it had existed in their land. Ought they not then to trust Him for the future?

COMPENSATION AWARDS.

BANK'S CLAIMS DISMISSED.

The hearing of claims under the Damage to Property Compensation Act, 1923, was continued yesterday, before Mr E. J. McElligott, K.C., in the Dublin Circuit Court.

A decree for £816 was awarded in a claim arising out of the destruction of the portico of the Grand Central Cinema, Sackville street, by a land mine explosion, on April 27th, 1923. The applicants were Messrs. J. and C. McGloughlin, Ltd., Great Brunswick street, contractors for the erection of the building.

BANKS ROBBED.

A claim for £251, money stolen by armed men on July 10th, 1922, was put forward on behalf of the Pembroke Branch of the Munster and Leinster Bank, and a decree for the full amount was given.

There were two other claims in respect of money stolen from the Rathgar branch of the same bank. The first was for £1,302, and the second for £1. In the latter case an armed raider was stated to have pocketed a £1 note left on the counter by a customer.

Mr. McElligott said that there was nothing to indicate that these men belonged to any illegal association, and, consequently, the applications did not come within the Act. He accordingly dismissed them, without costs. There were a lot of blackguards, he said going round Dublin at this time who had no connection with any political association.

Mr. John Murphy was awarded £290 for damage caused to his premises at 21-22 Merchants' quay during the Four Courts bombardment.

BRITISH COMMISSIONER'S CLAIM.

Captain Harold E. Priestman, British Commissioner, Northern Nigeria, claimed for clothing destroyed or taken away by irregulars at the Sackville street Club, 59 Upper Sackville street.

Evidence was given by a witness who had been employed as a valet at the club. Captain Priestman, he said, was on leave for two months at the time, and was staying at the club.

The claimant was granted £100.

James Mullins, 19-20 Bachelor's Walk, claimed £214 for goods lost or damaged through the occupation by irregulars of the claimant's store at Henry street. The goods were purchased from the British Government Disposal Board.

A decree for £80 was given.

James Fleming, merchant, 140 Drumcondra road, was awarded £46 in respect of a motor lorry which yas taken away and burned.

Christopher Kiernan was awarded £34 for damage done to the premises 96, 97, and 98 Capel street during the occupation of that street by armed forces.

COWKEEPER'S LOSS.

Christopher Kavanagh, cowkeeper, Wood quay, claimed £251 for losses arising out of the Four Courts bombardment. The claimant, it appeared, had a farm at Tallaght, and for four days he was prevented from leaving Wood quay. He was thus unable to look after his cows, and as a result of not being milked the animals developed milk fever. One cow and its calf died, and nine had to be sold at a loss, and five recovered after a time.

Counsel admitted that the case was a "border-line" one, as the question of consequential damages cropped up.

Mr. McElligott allowed £20.

HUNGRY PIGS.

Patrick Kavanagh, a brother of the previous claimant, sought £182 for loss caused by being unable to look after his pig yard, at the rear of Thomas street, while the Four Courts bombardment was in progress. The pigs, he said, broke loose one night and attacked each other. All the young pigs were eaten and some of the old pigs were injured.

The claim was dismissed as not proper under the Act.

J. J. Kelly, manufacturer's agent, was awarded £10 in respect of boots taken by irregulars while they were in occupation of 17 Trinity street. A similar amount was awarded to Mr. Thomas Lawton, a well-known racehorse owner, for articles seized by the irregulars while he was staying in the Edinburgh Hotel.

RENT BILL IN DAIL.

SWEEPING REDUCTIONS.

While awaiting the new bill, every landlord and tenant can reduce repair cost 30 per cent. now by requiring his decorators to use He-o-lin, which has startled the experts at Wembley. He-o-lin saves 1 coat in three, or 6s. 8d. in each £1. Hence over 100 Municipal Committees have insisted on its use.

Its superiority in beauty and endurance to the best ordinary housepainting got He-o-lin specified for St. James's Royal Palace and the National Art Gallery.—William Preston and Co., Ltd., Pearse st., Dublin. Branches in chief cities.—(Advt.)

LAW REPORTS.

10,000 DOLLARS CASE.

MR. O'MARA'S DEFENCE.

In the Chancery Division, before Mr. Justice Murnaghan, the case of Fogarty v. O'Donoghue, came on for hearing.

The plaintiffs, the Most Rev. Michael Fogarty (Bishop of Killaloe), Richard Mulcahy, Richard Hughes, Liam T. MacCosgair, John Collins, and Ernest Blythe sought a declaration that 10,000 dollars given by the late Michael Collins to the defendant Daithi O'Donoghue, and lodged by him in the Munster and Leinster Bank, Lower Sackville street, Dublin, constituted part of the funds of Dail Eireann; an account of all other securities and money received by the defendants from the Trustees of Dail Eireann or the Minister of Finance of Dail Eireann; and, an order for the payment or transfer of the same.

The Most Rev. Dr. Fogarty sued as one of the original trustees of Dail Eireann, and also as one of the present trustees; the plaintiffs, Richard Mulcahy, and Richard Hayes sued as the present trustees of Dail Eireann; the plaintiff Liam T. MacCosgair sued as former Minister of Finance of Dail Eireann; the plaintiff John Collins as personal representative of the late Michael Collins; and Ernest Blythe had been now added as the present Minister of Finance.

The defendants, Eamon de Valera and Stephen O'Mara, were sued as original trustees of Dail Eireann Funds, and Mr. O'Donoghue as secretary of the trustees.

The Attorney-General, who with Mr. Brown, K.C., and Mr. Bewley (instructed by Messrs. James O'Connor and Co.), appeared for the plaintiffs, said that neither Mr. O'Donoghue nor Mr. de Valera had put in any defence to the action, and consequently he was moving as against them, for judgment in default of defence. This sum of 10,000 dollars came to the late Michael Collins. Mr. Collins wanted to use it, and instead of going to the bank he went to Mr. O'Donoghue who was secretary of the trustees, and had considerable draft funds. Mr. O'Donoghue changed the 10,000 dollars for him and it became part of the funds.

Mr. Justice Murnaghan said that he could make a declaration against these two defendants who had not entered a defence, that the 10,000 dollars constituted part of the funds of Dail Eireann, and also for the account asked for, affecting so much as was in their possession.

Mr. Jellett, K.C., who with Mr. Overend, K.C., and Mr. Marnan (instructed by Mr. E. W. Proud) appeared for Mr. O'Mara, said that in this present application all that he was concerned with was that no order should be made against these two defendants which would in any way prejudice his position afterwards.

Mr. Justice Murnaghan—It does not prejudice your position, because these gentlemen have entered no defence.

The Attorney-General said that Mr. O'Mara had put in a defence which was based entirely on the pleading that the position brought about and created by the Treaty was not a continuation of the position under the first and second Dails. That was wrong, and foundamentally wrong. He referred to the proceedings of the first and second Dails, the sending of plenipotentiaries to London in connection with the Treaty, and said that it was idle to contend that the Treaty was not approved and put into operation by the Dail. The Dail, at a later date, decided that any Government that might be set up would undertake to pay off any Republican loan, and neither Mr de Valera nor anyone else was entitled to keep the proceeds of this or any loan.

The Attorney-General read minutes of the appointment of the present trustees, and submitted that they were entitled to bring these proceedings to get an account from Mr. O'Mara, Mr. de Valera, and Mr. O'Donoghue of all trusts found in their hands or in the hands of any of them; and to get an order for the transfer or payment of these monies and securities. He contended that the Government of the Irish Free State were the successors of the Government of Dail Eireann, and as such were entitled to the funds.

Mr. Jellett pointed out that this action was started in 1922, and the pleadings closed sometime in 1923. If the Attorney-General wished now to rely on a statute that was passed in 1924 he should have taken steps to apply for an order to amend his statement of claim. He said that the Attorney-General was not entitled in any way in support of the case he was making, to rely on that statute now.

The Attorney-General said that Mr. Jellett's objection was very surprising in view of the paragraph of Mr. O'Mara's defence, that he was willing to give the funds to those who are entitled to them.

MR. O'MARA'S CASE.

Mr. Jellett, K.C., opening the case on behalf of Mr. O'Mara, said that there was no allegation in the statement of claim against Mr. O'Mara about the 10,000 dollars. In this very action an application was made for an interlocutory injunction against Mr. O'Mara in connection with this 10,000 dollars, as trustee, and on that occasion President Cosgrave swore an affidavit—in December, 1922—giving the names of the trustees, and stating that in order to prevent this sum from being withdrawn, it was necessary to get an interlocutory injunction against Mr. O'Mara. That application was dismissed with costs, on the grounds that there was not the slightest syllable or suggestion in the affidavit that Mr. O'Mara had anything whatever to say to this sum of 10,000 dollars. Now, by some argument or by some suggestion which he had not been able to understand, Mr. O'Mara was to be made liable for monies which he never had anything to say to.

Mr. Justice Murnaghan said that it was alleged that Mr. O'Donoghue received the money as secretary of the trustees and that was not denied in the defence.

Mr. Jellett said that Mr. O'Mara was a stranger to anything that went on between the Minister of Finance and Mr. O'Donoghue. No evidence whatever had been put before his Lordship that any part of this money ever came to Mr. O'Mara's hands or at any time under his control. So far as relief was concerned, the only relief that was asked against his client was an account, and the question was whether the parties who were asking for that account are entitled to make that demand or not. In the first place, who were they? One class consisted of three trustees appointed by resolution of the 13th September, 1922, and the other class consisted of present or past Ministers of Finance in either the Provisional Government or the Irish Free State. Who was it that passed that resolution of the 13th September, 1922, appointing these trustees? He found by the official report of the debates that the resolution was passed by the Provisional Parliament. He understood the argument of the plaintiffs to be that the Provisional Government and the Provisional Parliament that came into being were legal successors to what he called the Second Dail, which was a Dail representing the whole of Ireland; and that the trustees and the other plaintiff, between them, were the legal successors—they, or some of them—of the original state of affairs in conection with the Republican Dail. The first step in that argument was to trace, if they could, legal succession from the second Republican Dail to the Provisional Government and Parliament. He referred to Article 17 of the Treaty for the purpose of showing that the Provisional Government derived its authority entirely from the British Government. They did not get their powers from the second Dail, or from the Republic of Ireland, but from the British Government—that was what the Treaty said—and accordingly the suggestion was that a body which owed its existence, not to an act of the Republican Dail or Parliament, but to an Act of the British Government, was still to be considered the legal successor of the Republican Dail.

The whole argument which the plaintiffs relied on for the purpose of showing that they are the legal successors, and are entitled to these funds, was that on the 7th January, 1922, the Second Dail approved of the Treaty. That was a very small step in the path that they would have to follow, but whether approval of the Treaty legalised it, or whether it did not, it could not have any effect on the original purpose for which the moneys and funds were subscribed. There was a trust deed, and that trust deed remained exactly where it was. No resolution was ever passed by any body that could alter it, altering the decisions; therefore, no person, except those who could show that they were the people appointed under this trust, had a right to call for an account.

Mr. O'Mara had never received any directions from the persons whom the trust deed said he had to obey, to do anything inconsistent with the trust deed, which was signed on behalf of the President of the Republic, and also by the Minister of Finance in the Republic. Mr. O'Mara was willing and ready, and always had been, to account to the proper parties, but not to those who had nothing to say to these moneys.

Mr. Jellett had not concluded his argument when the Court adjourned until this morning.

WIFE'S ALLEGATIONS.

Before Mr. Justice Johnston and a jury yesterday, the matrimonial suit of Maher v. Maher came on for hearing. The petitioner, Norah Maher, sought a divorce a mensa et thoro from Martin Maher, a farmer, of Monaincha, Roscrea, Co. Tipperary, on the ground of cruelty extending over a long period. The defence was that respondent was not guilty of the acts of cruelty alleged and that there was provocation on the part of petitioner.

Mr. A. E. Wood, K.C., who, with Mr. M. Maguire (instructed by Messrs. O'Farrell and McCullagh), appeared for the petitioner, said that she was the daughter of a respectable farmer, of Killea, Templemore. On the 4th February, 1909, she was married to respondent at Killea Catholic Church, having brought him a fortune of £500 and furniture for the home. There were five children of the marriage. The respondent had a farm of 200 acres, carrying ten milch cows and fifty pigs. The husband, who was constantly under the influence of drink, made a drudge and slave of his wife. Early in 1915 he turned her out of the house for the entire night. The first incident on which they relied took place on 10th June, 1915, when the respondent came home with his workman, named Bergin. They were primed with about two gallons of beer. She was washing at the time, and the respondent hurled the wash-tub and clothes outside the door and abused her. Dinner having been prepared for him on the table, he removed the latter into the yard, where he partook of the food with his workman, never thinking of his wife and children. Later on that day he struck her with his elbow and dashed her head against the jamb of the door. When assaulting her his taunt always was, "Where's your witness to prove I did that?"

In consequence of his maltreatment she was obliged to go to Dublin for an operation. Counsel said that he would only refer to one other incident, which occurred on the 8th November, 1921. The petitioner happening to have a teapot in her hand, he took it from her and struck her on the head with it. He then had such a brawl that the priest was brought to the house and he admonished Maher. There was a kind of family arrangement in July, 1922, and she went to live with her husband again, bringing with her from Dublin her sister, Mrs. Rutledge. They were not there long when he came home in a rage and attacked them with a brush. When he tried to fell Mrs. Rutledge with the brush the latter defended herself with a tongs. The respondent then went at the family with a drag-fork, and they remained all that night in the house, while he acted as jailer outside. On the next day he was brought up at Petty Sessions, but the case was adjourned. On several occasions later on he assaulted the petitioner, and once when she was driven out of the house he searched for her with a bill-hook, remarking, "I will have her in h—— to-night."

Mrs. Norah Maher, in reply to Mr. Maguire, bore out the facts as detailed by Mr. Wood.

Cross-examined by Mr. Leonard, K.C., who, with Mr. Kingsmill Moore (instructed by Mr. W. Dwyer), appeared for respondent, Mrs. Maher denied that she had accused her husband of going after other men's wives and that she said she would poison him. The first row with her husband took place on the honeymoon.

Mrs. Margaret Rutledge, Townsend street, Dublin, sister of the petitioner, corroborated the latter's evidence.

For the defence, Dr. Murray, of Roscrea, stated, in reply to Mr. Kingsmill Moore, that he had been the family doctor of Mr. and Mrs. Maher. Mrs. Maher never complained to him of being beaten by her husband, nor did he observe any marks upon her body. He never saw her working on the farm. He observed lately that there was a decided change for the worse in the way that the house had been kept.

To Mr. Maguire—He always found Mrs. Maher a decent, well-conducted woman.

Examined by Mr. Leonard, Martin Maher, the respondent, said that he and his wife used to have quarrels, but he never struck her with any weapon. She once hit him with a tongs, and on another occasion she took a shovel to him. She threw hot tea at him, and also threw dirty water upon his dinner. He denied the various charges of assaulting his wife and of locking her out all night. He never chased her with a bill-hook.

To Mr. Wood—He fed his pigs on carcases that he got from the tannery, but he could not remember his wife having to prepare the food for the pigs from them.

The further hearing of the case was adjourned until this morning.

The Earl of Selborne has been elected Chairman of House of Laity in the Church Assembly in place of Lord Parmoor.

SLIGO SHOW.

A SUCCESSFUL FUNCTION.

FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

The County Sligo Agricultural Society held their annual Show at the Show grounds yesterday in very bad weather. However, the afternoon improved, and some very excellent jumping was enjoyed by a large crowd.

The entries in the horse classes were not up to the standards of previous years, but the cattle section was well filled. The class for brood mares and foals was won by Mrs. Gordon McCormick's Maureen, who foal was also adjudged the best foal in the show. Mr. C. J. Bentley was second in the brood mares' class with Mountain Eagle, a fine mare by White Eagle. The class for two-year-old geldings or fillies was won by Mr. W. Craig, T. Gillen's bay filly being second. Mr. J. Morrison had no difficulty in winning the four-year gelding or mare class (untrained) with a nice brown gelding by Find. Mr. J. Morrison's bay gelding came second.

In the class for trained geldings or mares, Mrs. H. C. Bourke's black gelding was first, and Mr. J. J. Vahey's bay mare was second, but there must have been very little between the two. The class for ponies was appropriated by Mrs. E. Brown's gelding, which ought to turn out an excellent polo pony.

The class for bullocks calved in 1923 was won by Mr. W. R. Fenton, who also carried of the premier award in the class for cows in calf. The sheep classes were not too well filled, the best being, perhaps, that for ram lambs, which was won by Major Cooper, who was also second in the same class. Mr. J. Barber came first, and Major O'Hara second, in the short-woolled lambs, and the latter also won the class for pen of three ewes (confined to County Sligo farmers whose valuation does not exceed £100. Major O'Hara won the class for ewes reared in 1924, Lieutenant-Colonel Campbell being second. Mr. A. Dodd's exhibit won the male goat class, and Mr. P. Marren was second.

The poultry section was very good, the best class being the any variety hatched in 1924, and which was won by Mr. J. Woods, Mr. W. Heather being second, and Mr. G. Stuart third. The best of the rabbit classes was the Blue Beverin, which was won by Mr. E. Hyde, closely followed by Lieutenant Brabazon.

The judges were:—Horses—The Hon. Mr. Justice Wylie, Messrs. W. Kilroy, J. Murphy and A. Mears. Cattle, sheep and pigs—Messrs. S. Gibson, R. C. Williams, P. S. Daly and W. Mitchell. Poultry—Mr. W. H. Ashe. Rabbits—Mr. D. J. Carton.

TRADE MARK CASE.

IRISH APPEAL DISMISSED IN LONDON.

Mr. Justice Romer, in the Chancery Division, London, yesterday heard the appeal of the Irish Industrial Development Association from a decision of the Registrar of Trade Marks, allowing an application by Jones and Campbell, Ltd., of Tarbert, Scotland, for the registration as a trade mark for stoves of the word "Colleen."

The opposition was based on the ground that the word "Colleen" was calculated to lead to the belief that the stoves were made in Ireland.

His Lordship, giving judgment, said that Jones and Campbell, Ltd., designed stoves suitable for different districts, and applied to them trade marks which they thought would attract purchasers in those districts. He was willing to assume that "Colleen" was an Irish word, but was quite unable to believe that anyone seeing the word on his stove would necessarily think the stove was made in Ireland. The Registrar was right in drawing a distinction between this and the well-known "Shamrock" case, which was a case of the Irish national emblem, and the application would be dismissed with costs.

The Parliamentary vacancy for London University, caused by the death of Sir Sydney Russel Wells, will probably be postponed until late autumn.

LITTLE TALKS TO HURRIED PEOPLE

Tropical!

THE worst of hot weather here is that you're not in practice for it when it comes. Hence the general fluster! Elderly gentlemen in suburban gardens with cabbage leaves inside their hats but not achieving any conspicuous degree of coolness; you yourself hardly knowing which is you and which is your under-garment; and in the night—bed-clothes on the floor, more like ropes than bed-clothes!

There is a summer drink called Eno.* You have often heard of it as a sound and wise corrective of the inner organs. From your mother! Even more so from your uncle in India—if you happen to have one—because Eno is accounted as little less than salvation in really hot countries. But it's more than a medicinal corrective. It's a joy to the dry mouth. Eno is very wet; very cold; very gushing. It goes down the dry throat so cool and feverless. And the coolness which Eno gives is a coolness which lasts. It takes the heat and hurry out of the system. Quite safe too! No harm mixed up with the good!

ENO'S "FRUIT SALT"

*Eno is the World-Famed Effervescent Saline. A dash of Eno actually cools a glass of water by 4° to 6° F. An added squeeze of orange or lemon makes a summer drink perfect in profit and pleasure.

Protect the Enamel

Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

Whiter Teeth

How millions get them

There is a way to whiter, cleaner teeth. Millions now employ it. You see the results in every circle now. Will you learn how to get them?

Combat the film

This way combats the film on teeth—that viscous film you feel. Film clings to teeth; it stains and discolours. Then it forms dingy coats. That is why teeth grow dim.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth—the acid may cause decay.

Dental science now knows ways to fight that film effectively. One disintegrates the film, the other removes it without harmful scouring.

Convincing tests proved those methods efficient. Then a new-type tooth paste was created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent. Leading dentists of some fifty nations now advise its use.

Results are quick

Pepsodent also multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva, also its starch digestant. Those are Nature's great tooth-protecting agents in the mouth.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth become whiter as the film coats disappear.

GOSSIP FROM THE COURSE

GOOD SPORT AT LIVERPOOL.

SUNSTONE REVERSES KEMPTON RUNNING.

THE STEWARDS' CUP ACCEPTANCES.

FROM OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.

LIVERPOOL, Wednesday Night.

The Stewards' Cup now presents an attenuated appearance, for only thirty-two of the original seventy-six have accepted. Still, they include all the cream of the entry, and a number of stables have helped towards a solution of the problem by choosing to be represented by only a single candidate. Sir Charles Nugent, however, has left in Compiler and Golden Bud, and Captain Davis has Rath Duth and Mill Belle, Minority paying forfeit. Top Gallant holds his ground at the top of the handicap, but Belsize has gone, and so has Argozone, which was to be expected after his failure last Friday at Sandown. All Mr. White's horses have gone except the French colt Robert Espagne, who is very much fancied indeed, and who will be ridden by Walsh. I am afraid, however, I cannot quite see him treading in the footprints of Epinard. All the popular candidates, as well as Arausio, remain in—Drake, Cos, Caravel, Jarvie, Pandarus and Perhaps So, and there will be plenty of opportunity for speculation.

AMETHYSTINE'S NARROW WIN.

The summer meeting here opened this afternoon in dull weather but it kept fine practically up to the last event, and the racing was very good throughout. The betting, however, was very light, and the shortage of money is very marked in this area. Captain Cecil Boyd-Rochfort, who won the Irish Oaks, nearly brought off a great double, for very shortly after Amethystine had scored at the Curragh Perhaps So all but won the Molyneux Cup here. Indeed, I think she would have won but for swerving badly in the last hundred yards. She was only beaten three parts of a length by Mrs. Arthur James's Sunstone, who reversed the Kempton running in the spring with her at a slight advantage in the weights.

Sunstone earns a Stewards' Cup penalty, but Perhaps So, on this running, looks to have a chance at Goodwood with 7st. 2lb.—that is, assuming she gets the distance, and that it was not distress that caused her to swerve here. Stanhope, who barely gets the six, did very well in finishing third, and gave the Foxhill stable a good line for Robert Espagne.

JOHN DENIS AND DRAKE.

John Dennis was greatly fancied, and was one of the best-backed candidates in the race. He ran extremely well, but he was under pressure some distance from home. He and Drake were always racing together, and they finished alongside on the far side of the course. Very little could have separated them from the three placed horses, who were bunced together under the stands, Zanoni ran badly, and finished near the tail end of the field. I note that he is another among the acceptances for the Stewards' Cup. Drake actually started favourite, and Patras was the greatest disappointment of the other well-backed candidates. It is interesting to note that the first three are three-year-olds, and it is remarkable the number of races that animals of this age are winning just now.

The St. George Stakes, as I expected, was won by Reggio, who beat Roysterer by two lengths, after the latter had made most of the running. The failure of the favourite, Blue Pete, and Green Fire was complete. Blue Pete never was racing with them at all, and Green Fire performed equally badly. It was a canter for Reggio when Frank Bullock asked him to win. Taylor has got rid of all the lumber which Reggio carried at Chester, and he was a well-trained colt here.

HAMMONDIA'S NECK VICTORY.

Taylor, it may be mentioned, had just previously stooped to pick up a selling race with Hammondia, who was lucky to beat Ormline by a neck. The latter put up a remarkable performance, for he was left, and was still last when they were well in the straight, yet Bullock managed to get through and make up the lost ground all but a few inches.

Mr. T. Quinlan's wonderful old mare, Sunshot, still continues to produce winners. The latest is Gameshot, a very charming filly by Marten, whom Sir Charles Hyde bought at Doncaster last September for 1,750 guineas, and who gained a very smart victory for her owner when she beat Prompt easily by two lengths in the Southport Two-Year-Old Plate. She had been well tried with Dignity, and she put up a very smart performance here. Balkan did not run for the other two-year-old event, the Mersey Stakes, which Poor Scats won from a better favourite in Sir Kenneth.

TO-DAY'S FANCIES.

The racing to-morrow here falls off a little. DARK FOX may continue Sir Charles Hyde's run of luck by winning the Abbeystead Plate from Moabite and Norsenan, both of whom are fancied. I imagine that Great Barrier will not give the weight to NEIGEUSE in the Knowsley Dinner Stakes. The FLYING SPEAR COLT may win the Lancashire Breeders' Produce Stakes.

THE CURRAGH.

THE IRISH OAKS.

AMETHYSTINE'S NARROW VICTORY OVER VOLTOI.

TREBLE FOR MR. PARKINSON.

The hopes entertained that Voltoi would supplement her success in the Irish One Thousand Guineas by a victory in the Oaks yesterday were not destined to be realised, but she made a gallant bid for the spoils, and it was only after a thrilling struggle that she succumbed by the narrowest possible margin to Amethytine, to whom she was conceding 4lb. Childs rode a masterly race on Lady Nunburnholme's filly, timing his effort to a nicety, and his powerful finish was the deciding factor in a desperately near thing.

The earlier running was carried on by the outsider, Pure Gaiety, who brought her field along at a good pace, and half-way through held a commanding lead, which she maintained for a little more than a mile, when her bolt was shot. Then Benedicta momentarily flattered, as did Arganthe, who, however, compounded rapidly when tackled by Amethystine half-way up the straight. Meantime, Voltoi, who was some distance behind as they came down the hill, made up ground very fast, and excitement ran high as she got on terms with the leader in the last fifty yards, and the pair ran home locked together. It was, indeed, a rousing set-to, and so close were they together as they flashed past the judge's box that many people on the stands could not say with any certainty which had won until the numbers were hoisted in the frame. Amethystine, who is by Hainault, out of a mare by Lesterlin from Cairngorm by Baliol, and was bred in Co. Limerick by Mr. P. A. Kirby; is trained by Captain Cecil Boyd Rochfort at Newmarket.

The Maryborough Plate was, on paper, such an obviously good thong for the Drogheda Memorial Stakes winner, Soldennis, that the bookmakers declined to trade at any price, and the race was nothing more than an exercise canter for the son of Tredennis, who has shown so strong a partiality for the Curragh, where he has run up such a fine record. A much more interesting affair was the Probationers' Stakes, for which fifteen two-year-olds went to the post. Lady Nightingale, who left off joint favourite with Lomond's Lake, had none the best of luck in the race, and only got an opening when it was too late. On the other hand, Lomond's Lake always held a nice position, and depriving Speedy Prince of the lead close home, landed a good stake for his connections.

Mr. McAuley was afforded some compensation for the defeat of Voltoi, when that mare's own brother, Valtoi readily settled the pretensions of four opponents in the Curragh Produce Stakes. He began slowly, and for a long way his chance looked remote, but, putting in some strong work in the last furlong, he won with plenty to spare at the end. Flying Spray largely owed his victory in the Rathbride Plate to a quick beginning, and though Princess Mildred was fast pegging him back in the closing stages, he managed to hold on to his advantage. His stable companion, Komorn, completed the treble for Maddenstown Lodge in the Dunmurry Plate, which he won in effortless fashion.

The weather was anything but summer-like, and the drizzling rain which was in evidence for the greater part of the day did not conduce to the comfort of a fairly large company. Mr. J. J. Parkinson's stable was in good form, that trainer supplying three winners, and T. Burns again carried off the riding honours, three successes falling to his share. Details:—

Black Mint showed the way to Maytoi, Ardaulin, Lomond's Lake, Lomondais, Lady Nightingale, and Speedy Prince for four furlongs, when Speedy Prince went on in front, followed by Lomond's Lake, Lady Nightingale, and Black Mint. Inside the distance Lomond's Lake challenged Speedy Prince, and won by three-parts of a length; two lengths divided second and third. Black Mint was fourth, Maytoi fifth, Brown Beauty sixth, Longquill seventh, Ardauline eighth, and Lomondais next.

Mr. D. J. Cogan's Benedicta, 9-0 ......J. Moylan 0
Mr. R. C. Ross's Pure Gaiety, 9-0 ....F. Foley 0
(Winner trained by Boyd-Rochfort.)

Betting—6 to 4 agst. Voltoi, 2 to 1 Arganthe, 3 to 1 AMETHYSTINE, 6 to 1 Benedicta, 50 to 1 any other.

Pure Gaiety settled down with a clear lead of Armour Plate, Benedicta, Arganthe, Lady Marcigny, Voltoi, and Amethystine, with Lucky May last. There was practically no change in this order for a mile, when Benedicta showed in front of Arganthe, Amethystine, Voltoi, and Pure Gaiety, the others being beaten off. When fairly in the line for home Arganthe headed Benedicta, but a little further on she in turn gave way, and Amethystine dashed to the head of affairs, pursued by Voltoi, who drew level close home, but in a grand finish Amethystine won by a short head; five lengths divided second and third. Benedicta was fourth, and Pure Gaiety fifth, the remainder pulling up. Time—2 mins. 45 4-5 secs.

3.10—CURRAGH PRODUCE STAKES of 450 sovs., of which the breeder of the winner and owner of the second receives 50 sovs. each, and the owner of the third 20 sovs. For two years old. 5 f.

Mr. P. D. Cullinan's Winged Bee, 8-10 Jas. Doyle 0
Mr. A. Lowry's Bachelor's Light, 8-3...E. Quirke 0
(Winner trained by T. Coombs.)

Betting—5 to 4 each agst. VALTOI and Elusive, 8 to 1 Winged Bee, 100 to 8 Bachelor's Light, 50 to 1 Honey Girl.

Bachelor's Light stood still at the start, and Elusive carried on the running from Honey Girl, Winged Bee, and Valtoi for three furlongs, when Honey Girl drew to the front, but was shortly afterwards headed by Valtoi, who won easily by four lengths; a length divided second and third. Winged Bee was fourth.

3.40—RATHBRIDE PLATE of 200 sovs., of which the second receives 20 sovs. and the third 10 sovs. A handicap. 5 f.

Flying Spray jumped off in front of Marlhill's First, Field Bee, Buntz (who swerved), and Drumshemuck and Princess Mildred, and so they ran for three furlongs, when Princess Mildred took second place, but failed to catch Flying Spray, who won by a length and a half; two and a half lengths divided second and third. Marlhill's First was fourth, Drumshemuck fifth, Field Bee sixth, and Golden Reef next.

4.10—DUNMURRY PLATE of 150 sovs., of which the second receives 15 sovs., and the third 5 sovs. Weight for age, etc. 6 f. 63 yds.
Mr. W. F. Power's b. f. KOMORN, by Happy Warrior—Kate Fisher, 4, 9-7......T. Burns 1

TO-DAY'S SELECTIONS.

The recent heavy rains have left the course in first-class condition, and provided there is not a serious repetition the going will be excellent. Proceedings open with a selling event over six furlongs, for which Ormline may be pulled out again. He was distinctly unlucky yesterday, and should prove a ready winner. In his absence my choice would be Silver Hill. The Knowsley Dinner Stakes will bring out a fair-class field, best of which I like Great Barrier and Neigeuse. The first-named is a game horse, whereas the Manton filly has disappointed many times. She gets all the allowances, however, and believing her to be now at her best I select her with some confidence. The Abbeystead Plate is considered by many a good thing for Moabite, but I fancy he will find a difficulty in conceding the weight to Dark Fox and Becka. The first-named could not have won the Bibury Cup more easily, and provided the going does not become heavy he should win. For the Lancashire Breeders' Plate I shall not look beyond Flying Spear colt and Una Cameron, the former of whom gets my vote. Selections:—

Hill House Handicap—Ormline, if absent Silver Hill.
Knowsley Dinner Stakes—Neigeuse.
Abbeystead Plate—Dark Fox.
Lancashire Breeders' Produce—Flying Spear colt.
School House Plate—Pearl Maiden gelding.
Windermere Handicap—High Court.

YACHTING.

THE WATER WAGS.

The weather did not play into the hands of the Wag Club last evening, for it rained hard during most of the usual mid-week race, which finished in a strong puff out of the Westward. It was the 15th match, and the third tie for the Pavilion Cup, with a handicap for club prizes, and there were eight boats out at the start, at 6.45 p.m. Phyllis was recalled at the start as they went away on a short beat to the Coal Harbour mark, but got away fourth to Mollie, Coquette, and Barbara, astern of her coming Blue Bird, Tomboy, Pansy and Vela. Pansy, however, was only a short time in the race, for she fouled some other boat and gave up. They were running and reaching till the jetty buoy was made; then came a beat up to the line, where the order was Mollie, Coquette, Phyllis, Tomboy, Blue Bird, Wendy, Barbara. At the close of the next round Blue Bird was fourth, Barbara next, then Wendy and Tomboy. The wind had freshened considerably when they were entering the final round, and Barbara got out of hand and gave up. Finish:—

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

The British Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries has received the following information from the International Agricultural Institute:—"Cereal conditions in Canada on July 15th were good in Manitoba and fairly good in the southern districts of Alberta and Saskatchewan, but in important central and northern producing districts severe damage had been caused by drought. Scattered showers fell in the west on July 17th."

At the annual meeting of the Distillers' Company, Ltd., in Edinburgh, the managing director stated that two additional rectifiers' businesses in London were being acquired, and that the balance of unissued capital of the company would be required. The Distillers' Company has at present practically world control of raw grain whiskey. The Chairman also said that they had been hampered in manufacture of discol, their petrol from alcohol, by the price of molasses, but they had discovered a combination of two confidential processes which would enable them satisfactorily to produce discol.

LONDON STOCKS QUIET

MARKETS UNCERTAIN.

The Stock Markets were very quiet yesterday, with an irregular tendency. British Government securities reflected the stringency of money, while the uncertainty attending the proceedings of the Inter-Allied Conference, all helped to make matters uncertain. In the gilt-edged market Consols fell ⅛ to 56½. Funding Loan at 87⅞ fell ⅛. The Conversion Loan at 76⅞ lost ⅛. Treasury Bonds were ⅛ lower at 103¼. The New Conversion Loan at 97 fell ⅛.

In FOREIGN GOVERNMENT SECURITIES changes were not numerous. Brazilians were shaky, but no lower to quote on the day. Chinese of 1898 fell ⅛ to 79⅜.

HOME RAILWAYS were steady, and prices were maintained generally; here and there further advances were marked. Great Western rose ½ at 108½. London, Midland and Scottish Ord. at 96½ rose ½. London North-Eastern Pref.-Ord. at 82 gained ½, while the Second Pref. gained a point at 80. Underground Electric Income Bonds at 99 rose 1, and the Debs. at 103 also gained 1.

COLONIAL and FOREIGN RAILS were lower as a rule, though Grand Trunk Pacific Debs. rose 1 to 40½. San Paulo Ord. at 144½ fell 3 points. Bahia Blanca fell 1 to 78. In Argentine Pacifics at 78½, Western at 70½, and Centrals at 70½, each fell ½. Among Americans, Chesapeake rose 1 to 98, while Erie well ½ to 35½.

OIL MARKET IRREGULAR.

LOBITOS A STRONG FEATURE.

Like most other sections of the Stock Exchange, the Oil Share market displayed an irregular tendency yesterday, for while certain favourites met with attention and advanced, others, following a steady start, became easier. Firmness characterised leading issues, particularly in the early dealings, international counters being favourably influenced by the further improvement shown in the prices received overnight from New York. Royal Dutch were dealt in ex the final dividend of 15 per cent., and the interim dividend of 10 per cent., the official valuation of the distribution being £1 13s. 8d. net. Allowing for the deduction of this amount, the opening price showed a small improvement, but demand being small, and a little selling being encountered, the price slipped back, a decline being finally recorded. Shells maintained a steady tone throughout the day, closing rather buyers at the overnight's level. Mexican Eagles moved within very narrow limits, and no quotable alteration occurred in either the Ord. 8 per cent. or 7 per cent. Prefs. Eagle Oil Transport Notes, however, moved down. Anglo-Persians remained quietly steady, but a small loss was registered by Burmahs, and Anglo-Americans also weakened. A strong feature was provided by Lobitos, which came into renewed demand, and with the shares in short supply, the bidding lifted the price appreciably during official hours, while a further advance occurred in the "Street" dealings. Anglo-Ecuadorians, however, closed without alteration. V.O.C. Holdings were firm also, some good buying of the shares being reported, while there was renewed talk of the possibility of a new capital issue in the not distant future. The shares finished at an advance. British Controlled made a firm start, but gave way later as a result of sales, apparently by tired holders. In the afternoon, however, fresh support was forthcoming, and a rally occurred both in the Common and Preferred, closing steady. Among Rumanians Phoenix were a much better market than of late, and moved up smartly, the demand being accompanied by rumours of favourable developments, while it is anticipated that as a result of the satisfactory yield from the wells recently brought in production this month will show an appreciable improvement. Other Rumanians remained quiet; Trinidad issues uninteresting, a trifling shrinkage in United British being the only change. In other directions Attock Oils further weakened. Closing prices:—

LONDON MINING MARKET QUIET.

REACTION IN TIN PRICES.

In the Mining market Kaffirs again occupied a rather insignificant position, despite the evidences of steady improvement in the industrial position on the Rand. The report that the Mine Workers' Union are supporting the demand made some time ago for an increase of 20 per cent. in wages, to be retrospective, aroused but little interest, it being recognised that such demands, whether justified or otherwise, may be expedited under the new political régime. Paris was rather a seller of its specialities during the early hours, but changed its attitude later and supported a few of its favourites. The amount of business transacted on behalf of the French capital was, however, small, and had little influence on values, while the Cape remained indifferent. The amount of interest taken in the market may be judged from the number and extent of the movements on balance. East Rands were at first on offer on the publication of the June quarterly report, but later support was forthcoming and the price recovered. Several other low-priced shares were being nibbled at, but the leaders were mostly content to maintain former levels. In the Rhodesian department Chartered managed to improve their position, but Tanks and Cams, notwithstanding the excellent position disclosed in the reports, were allowed to slip back. Sherwood Starr were better, but Rhodesia Exploration were unaffected by the report, which indicates that the management is making every effort to turn to account the large land holdings which the company possesses. Rezende, Selukwe, Globes and the other usually active counters were left to themselves as the result of early Paris advices. The De Beers issues and Jagersfontein were lowered, and were unable later to recover the early losses, this market being dull and uninteresting.

Late in the day rumours were in circulation to the effect that an important agreement had been come to at the London Conference regarding the conditions of a German loan, and this helped to strengthen the tone all round. Reverting to Kaffirs, the Transvaal Chamber of Mines reports that the profits of the producing mines for June amounted to £1,225,397, which compares with £1,296,472 for the longer month of May. Some important statements regarding the mining industry of the country were made at the meeting of the Standard Bank of South Africa, and they were all of an encouraging character. There was a not unexpected reaction in the price of tin, the fall amounting to £3 10s. at £242 2s. 6d. per ton, and the share market exhibited irregularity. Some of the Eastern descriptions, including Siamese, Tavoy, Gopeng and Pahang were better; but Nigerians were inclined to ease, though the shrinkages were slight. West Africans were neglected, the proposed inquiry into conditions on the field, and the prohibition of further recruiting on the Gold Coast, creating a feeling of nervousness. In the Australian section there was a fair inquiry for Barriers, and Ivanhoe also went ahead. Rio Tinto and other Copper shares strengthened on the improved outlook for the metal owing to the restriction of output. The American supplies are stated to have been reduced to very small proportions, and the shares of the producers there have jumped up considerably. In the Miscellaneous department, Canadians were steady. The Keeley announces the usual 8 p.c. dividend and 4 p.c. bonus, but the shares were unaltered; while a good progress report from the Kirkland Lake aroused hardly a ripple of interest. Vipond went ahead, but Porcupine Goldfields receded, and Mining Corporation of Canada were the turn lower. Closing prices:—

BISLEY.

Australia won the Empire rifle match at Bisley yesterday after magnificent shooting at each of the six ranges, and thus retained the trophy. They led all the way through and finished with 2,348 out of a possible 2,400. Other scores were:—South Africa, 2,316; Mother Country, 2,181; Canada, 2,174; India, 2,088.

INDUSTRIALS FIRM.

FURTHER RISE IN BRADFORD DYERS.

A firm undertone continues in the Industrial and Miscellaneous markets, although apart from the Textile group the volume of business passing was of moderate dimensions. Renewed support for the leading Textile issues gave this section an animated appearance. With considerable stocks acquired at lower levels the higher price now ruling for cotton should prove beneficial. Bradford Dyers were again the feature on good provincial buying, and rose a further 2s. to 70s. 3d., closing firm at that figure. Bleachers were also in request, and improved to 52s. 9d. Calico Printers changed hands freely, and were finally the turn better at 35s. 6d., and Cotton Spinners put on a few pence to 48s. 6d. A large turnover in Courtaulds was again recorded, although the shares closed unchanged on balance at 53s. 9d. ex. bonus. The Prefs. were firm at 18s. 4½d. A big business was done in Celanese and the Prefs., but they proved yesterday a jumpy market, due to manipulative operations from an inspired source. Dealers are said to be rather chary of entering into commitments. The Ords. finished at 9s. and the Prefs. at 12s., the latter being rather better on balance. In other directions, Tobacco shares were inclined to give way through lack of support. Brewery stocks were less active, chiefly influenced by a decline in Watney Def. Profit taking in this stock was again in evidence, and at one time it was no better than 218, recovering at the close, however, to 222½, the loss on the day being limited to 2.

Maypole Def. were again actively dealt in, but on balance they closed 1½d. lower at 4s. 3d. An idea was prevalent that Jurgens were likely to become interested. An official announcement is expected shortly, but, meanwhile, we learn from a very reliable source that an agreement has been entered into, whereby Jurgens will acquire 3,000,000 of the Maypole shares, such purchase to carry with it representation on the board of the latter. Jurgens 7 p.c. Pref. ruled steady at 18s. 3d. Van Den Berghs closed easier at 25s. Other changes among Foodstuffs and Catering issues included a fall of 9d. in Bovril Def. to 42s. 9d., and a loss of 1/16 in Lyons. Salt Unions have been a firm spot of late, and on good buying from Liverpool rose 1s. to 25s., closing rather buyers at the price. Nobels enjoyed renewed support, and put on a few pence to 23s. 3d. Dunlops firmed up to 8s. 1½d., and Parent Tyre Def. closed 1/16 better at 1⅞, but the Dunlop Prefs. finished without change, although the "C's" marked up to 19s. 6d. News descriptions had a better appearance under the lead of Associated Def., which rose ⅛ to 5 3/16, "Daily Mirrors" gaining a like fraction at 5⅛. The continued offering of Tata Iron Debs. caused a further set-back in the price, and at 72½ the stock closed 2½ lower on the day. Changes among the remainder of the Iron and Steel group were of an unimportant character. The Marconi issues were supported, and a gain of 1/16 was registered in the Ords. and Prefs. of the Parent Company at 1⅞ and 1⅛ respectively. Marines finished firm at 1 1/16. A feature in the Insurance section was the renewed strength of Royal Exchange, which was marked up 5 to 550, changing up to 551. Apart from Westminsters, which were active at the higher level of 17⅞, the Banking issues ruled quietly steady.

ENGLISH SEWING COTTON.

THE OUTLOOK.

At the twenty-sixth annual meeting, Mr. Thomas F. Tattersall, the new Chairman, presiding, in moving the adoption of the report, which repeated a 20 per cent. dividend upon the bonus-doubled ordinary capital, said that they also repeated £200,000 allocation to reserves, against nothing placed in 1921-22, when the dividend rates were 15 per cent. The Chairman added that, although the company's turnover had been fully maintained, their sewing cotton mills were still working below normal capacity. Keen competition continued in home and foreign markets, while new products encroached upon certain sections. Moreover, current political and financial conditions retarded trade recovery in many foreign countries. Nevertheless, their large export business had been well sustained. He recommended those visiting Wembley to inspect that company's most attractive exhibit. Respecting Transatlantic trade, current income from their American thread subsidiary showed a slight reduction, and business conditions continued somewhat depressing, though they hoped for an early improvement. Respecting the English company's outlook, some sections of the business were to-day distinctly quiet, awaiting lower prices for raw cotton.

How little I realised when I was paying Mr. Bernard Shaw £2 10s. a week what a terrific Frankenstein I was making!—Mr. T. P. O'Connor.

THE MONEY MARKET.

LOANS STILL SCARCE AND DEAR.

EXCHANGES REACT.

Supplies of available credit were still inadequate, the Revenue returns showing that market resources have been depleted by further repayments of Ways and Means advances and by the ingathering of taxes. The pressure, however, was not quite so severe, and only a small amount had to be borrowed from the Bank of England. Up to 4 p.c. was occasionally paid for loans over the day, but later on accommodation was offered down to 2⅞ p.c., renewals being made at 3 p.c. Weekly fixtures were 2⅞ to 2⅞ p.c. There was very little doing in discounts, and the tendency kept firm, with fine three months' bills 3 5/16-3⅜ p.c. New Treasuries were offered at 3 7/16 p.c., with 3½ p.c. for selected dates.

Gold fell 2d. per oz. further to 93s. 9d. Silver remained unchanged for both spot and forward delivery at 34 5/16d. and 34 7/16d. respectively.

Foreign exchanges were inclined to react owing to the developments at the Conference with regard to the loan guarantees. French francs deteriorated to 85.25-85.35, with Belgium 95⅜-95⅞, while sterling, after touching $4.42, fell back to $4.40½-$4.40⅞ New York. Other European currencies did not move much. Rio improved to 5⅛-5 3/16 per milreis, Argentine dollars also being firmer at 40⅝-40⅞. The following are closing prices:—
